No Socialism for Peasants
3,000,000 Per Sunday
Mr. Hoover on Russia
The Burglar Objects

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

Lenin, boss of Russia, is alleged to have discovered that peasants cannot be made over into Socialists.

To live alone on the land, work before daylight and after dark, endure bad crops, bad weather, sick cattle, means intense individualism.

You find your Socialist in the shop, where a man walks to his machine in the morning, walks away again in the afternoon. The peasant is his own machinery, his own factory. To own the land is his dream. He wants no Socialism, in Russia, or elsewhere.

Newspaper publishers will be interested to know that the circulation of the Hearst Sunday newspapers has passed three millions. The price, everywhere, is ten cents.

For the Sunday edition only, of the Hearst newspapers, the people of this country pay fifteen millions six hundred thousand dollars every year, part from the amount paid for advertising.

Such figures would surprise the poor old workers of Grub street, and also the fact that of all different kinds of work, business and industry, the highest salary of any kind in the United States is paid by a daily newspaper.

Mr. Hoover informs the world that he does not approve of American business relations with Russia. His reasons for the solemn opinion seem no clearer than the reasons a little girl in pantalettes might give for not "speaking" to some other little girl. The New York Times calls Mr. Hoover's statement "an official declaration of the policy of the Harding administration." The general public had thought Mr. Harding, past twenty-one years old, able to express his own opinion.

England does not share Mr. Hoover's view of Russian trade. A special cable to the newspaper owned by Mr. Lamont, of Morgan & Company, says, "Britain to speed trade with Russia." English agents have been put in every Russian centre. The head of staff at Moscow will be virtually a British minister to Russia, with political power far in advance of any trade emissary England ever sent to a foreign country."

William Connolly, burglar, sent to one prison for fifty-nine years, begs to be sent to another prison. In the first prison are men convicted by his evidence. He is afraid they will kill him.

This shows how ingeniously nature, having work for us to do, winds us up and makes us want to stay here. The instinct of self-preservation is so strong that a man sentenced to prison, worse than death, fears only that death may set him free.

In the prison to which Connolly has gone, one man is under sentence of death, two in prison for life because of Connolly's testimony, and he fears them. Not one again will ever know liberty this side of the grave, and the grave is all they fear. Queer, human beings.

One big railroad in this country is losing more than a million dollars a day. That's unpleasant news, but not surprising, with the bottom dropped out of the steel industry. In Canada, the steel companies are combining, uniting with "the British Empire Steel Corporation." That shows British common sense. The way to run business is to cut down expenses overhead by making the business as big as possible, and then WATCHING it closely.

A special dispatch to Frank Munsey's Evening Sun announces the discovery of great phosphate fields in Texas. If the beds prove as rich or nearly as rich as the French deposits in North Africa, Texas will be a greater State than ever. As it is, intensively cultivated Texas could support the entire population of the globe. To find underground, ready for farms, the phosphate that had to be brought thousands of miles will vastly increase the wealth and possibilities of Texas, a great empire within the United States.

Five sailors are suspected of causing the great explosion in Wall street. The five, all young, are locked up at New Orleans, shackled hand and foot. They are said to be "German or Russian." That is the first piece of news today. It may amount to nothing.

Next in importance comes the announcement that Germany will not pay the billions marks in gold today, as requested. Developments there will be interesting. The German victory in Silesia had made the Allies hope for better results in the way of immediate cash.

OPENLY ACCUSES WIFE AND INDIAN

Counsel for Stillman Says Legitimacy of Child Must Be Determined by Court

By International News Service

White Plains, N. Y., March 23.—Alleging that "Mrs. James A. Stillman had taken as her lover an Indian guide who became the father of her infant, Guy," Delancey Nicoll, chief of counsel for the multi-millionaire banker in his divorce suit, made a sensational fight in the Supreme Court here today against Mrs. Stillman's demand for $120,000 alimony annually and $25,000 counsel fees.

Counsel for the president of the great National City Bank of New York presented figures to show that his income last year was $538,000, not sufficient to meet his wife's demands.

The hearing was brief and the expectation of sensational revelations was not realized. When the case ended at 10:20 o'clock Justice Morschauser reserved decision on Mrs. Stillman's alimony motion.

A plea that Mrs. Stillman be granted $30,000 yearly alimony and $5,000 counsel fees instead of the larger sum she sought was made by Attorney Nicoll. The attorney argued that this sum was granted in the famous Gould divorce, which then set a new high record. He said he did not believe it should be surpassed in the present case.

Justice Morschauser ruled that the whole question was affected by the legitimacy of Guy, the thirty-months-

AUTO DIVES OFF BRIDGE

LOWELL FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE

Overturned Lamp Causes Blaze That Ends Lives of Three

Lowell, March 23.—Mrs. Mary S. Mendes, twenty-three years old, and her two children, Frank, two years old, and Constance, six months, were burned to death today when trapped in the bedroom of their home at No. 185 Moody street by flames started from an overturned lamp.

Mrs. Mendes, who had been ill for some days, rose before 8 o'clock to get her husband's breakfast. When he had left for his work in the Tremont & Suffolk Cotton Mills, she went back to bed, leaving Frank playing about on the floor.

The next thing the neighbors knew dense masses of smoke poured from the windows of the apartment, and firemen responding to the alarm were forced to smash down the outer door in order to gain admission.

They found the bodies of Mrs. Mendes and her baby daughter lying on the bed, horribly burned, although death had been caused by suffocation. Frank had crawled under the bed and was still living when the firemen found him, but died before medical aid could reach him.

It is believed that the boy, in playing about the floor dragged the cloth off the kitchen table, upsetting the lighted lamp.

TWO HURT AS TRUCK FALLS ON RAILROAD

Loaded Auto Crashes Through Prison Point Bridge Fence; Drops to Tracks

A five-ton auto truck, driven by Isaac Specter of No. 119 Harvard street, Cambridge, was crossing the Prison Point Bridge between Charlestown and Cambridge today when it swerved, crashed through the wooden fence at the side of the bridge and dropped twenty feet to the railroad tracks below.

As it fell it turned over, throwing out Specter and Richard Leary of No. 79 Pleasant street, Medford, who was riding with the driver. Both men escaped serious injury, but sustained painful bruises and cuts. They were taken to the Haymarket Square Relief Station for treatment and went home.

The contents of the truck, empty wooden boxes, were scattered over the tracks, and the truck itself was wrecked. Specter says the accident was caused by another car which bumped him from behind.

House Invaded by Savage Bob Cat

Hubbardston, March 23.—Attracted by two pet rabbits, a fifteen-pound mongrel bob cat invaded the house of Rural Mail Carrier Hyler S. Bishop, and, showing fight when discovered, was only subdued by the judicious use of a club.

Owing to the appearance of the animal, Mr. Bishop was doubtful as to whether he should claim the bounty.

The cat entered the house through an upstairs window, apparently desirous of feasting on two white rabbits kept by the Bishop boys, Raymond and Law-

40 EMPLOYES IN PANIC FLEE FROM FIRE

Forty employes of the Haymarket Upholstering Company and the Samuel Glass Clothing Manufacturing Company at No. 10 Washington street North fled in a panic from their work today when dense clouds of smoke eddying through the building warned them of a blaze in the basement.

The alarm was sounded by Mrs. Mary Weisthal, an employe of the Samuel Glass Company, who discovered the smoke seeping through the air shaft from the lower floor. In a few minutes the whole building was filled with the fumes and the employes on the upper floors of the five-story building stampeded to the street.

The fire which caused more than $4,000 damage is believed to have been started by hot coals dropping from the furnace on to stock belonging to the clothing company.

It took the firemen under Deputy Chief Fox more than half an hour of hard fighting to get the flames under control. In the meantime, traffic in Haymarket square was jammed by the presence of fire apparatus and the need for cutting feed wires of the trolley system.

DAVIS AND HIS BRIDE TO START FARMING

Happier Than If He Wed Girl From Beacon Street, He Says

Buzzard's Bay, March 23.—"You can tell them I'm happier with my South Boston bride than if I'd chosen her from Beacon street or Commonwealth avenue, and we'd attended the same social functions all our lives."

That's the "honeymoon message" Harold H. Davis of No. 273 Beacon street, Boston, gave a Boston American reporter for the people of his native city.

Davis, wealthy Harvard graduate, is honeymooning at the Buzzards Bay farm of James and Mrs. Garland with his bride, who was Miss Alice Troy of South Boston, a saleslgirl at Lamson & Hubbard's store.

"But a man marries it's nobody's business but his own," declared the young man, who defied social distinctions to marry the girl of his choice.

"Beacon street's over-conservatism is the curse of Boston and social distinctions are usually idiotic.

"I am proud of the wife I chose, and she chose me. It's going to be the making of me.

"We are ultimately going to California, and I am going to start a stock farm. My wife likes the idea. Neither of us takes society with a capital S seriously.

SEEK LOVE AND WORK.

"Love, work and happiness are what we seek, and I know no surer recipe for attaining them than marrying the girl you want, and engaging in useful, productive work."

"I got the best girl in the world, kindly, sensible, simple-hearted, good-natured, useful," he continued. "All is more honor to her that she worked before she married she needed to work. Beacon street is nothing to me. Hate the city. So does my wife."

Young Davis exchanged a smile with petite little Mrs. Davis as she stood just opposite him beside young Mrs. Garland. Then he continued:

"What this country needs is more farmers and fewer clubmen. What the country needs is a new army of

Census Figures Mask Hawaii's Jap Peril

The third installment of the article by Joseph Timmons of the Los Angeles Examiner staff on the Japanese "invasion" of Hawaii is amazing in its revelations of how thoroughly Nipponized the islands are becoming through ignorance of our administrators, unreliability of census figures, duplicity of Japanese in overcoming the "gentlemen's agreement" prohibiting entry of laborers and the educational system exercised by the Mikado's subjects to de-Americanizing their United States born children.

By JOSEPH TIMMONS

Twenty thousand Japanese children from Hawaii, 13,000 of them Hawaiian-born American citizens, are now in Japan receiving Japanese education.

As they finish their schooling they will return to Hawaii, unalterably Japanese, to join the 20,000 others that are getting similarly effective education in the 175 Japanese language schools in the islands.

This generally overlooked item of 20,000 children in Japan destroys the value of our census figures of Japanese population in Hawaii. The total census of 1920 was 109,-

40,000 HAWAIIAN JAPANESE CHILDREN ARE BEING NIPPONIZED

MIKADO'S LABORERS ENTER ISLANDS BY THOUSANDS

274, an increase of 29,599 since 1910. But the 20,000 boys and girls back in Japan—immigration office records establish the number—are not counted. The total should be approximately 130,000, and the increase for the decade about 50,000.

This estimate does not ignore deaths among the children back in Japan in school. That number is fully covered by children still there in school who went back prior to 1910, and by recently returned adults entitled to come back to Hawaii.

Bad as was this condition ten years ago, the Japanese problem of the territory of Hawaii has become distinctly worse during the decade under the operation of the "gentlemen's agreement" between the United States and Japan. Easily 15,000 laborers have leaked through the immigration barrier.

The trouble has been that "interpretation of that agreement has been left to the Japanese gentleman," and our immigration authorities issued by Japan.

It was the essence of the agreement that laborers should not be permitted to leave Japan for American territory. Nearly ten thousand "picture brides"—3717, to be exact—almost all of whom at once went to work in the cane fields, on pineapple plantations, in rice fields, or as servants, came in during the decade. They are still coming to the islands—that must not be forgotten.

In addition to these "brides," thousands of male laborers came over during the ten years, with passports. They were able to get passports because of peculiar family relations. Under the regulations, a Japanese in Hawaii may bring over his wife, his father and mother, his children. That opens up a big leak.

How Immigration Loophole Expands

A sugar plantation laborer may bring over a "picture bride," who is a laborer except for the few weeks annually at her period of child-birth. He sends for his father or mother or both. They arrive, and immediately send for all their other sons and daughters, whom the son first in Hawaii could not bring over.

Hundreds of cases have occurred in which the old couple or the old father was on his way back to Japan before these sons and daughters had arrived, having stopped only long enough for the necessary formalities of "calling" over the younger generation.

These sons and daughters, of course, may bring their wives and husbands and children. A "picture bride" may call over her mother or father, and that parent may bring her sturdy sons, laborers, and they may bring wives or send for picture brides.

Adoption affords another leak. For illustration, by agreement a laborer in Japan whose elder brother is head of the family, applies for and receives permission to withdraw from the family and set up a cadet family. Then he adopts as son a nephew in Hawaii, who is the son of that elder brother. The young man in Hawaii accepts that adoption, and through the consulate sends for his "father," who, upon arrival, sends back for his real sons, no matter how many there may be.

There is a sort of endless chain with buckets attached which are constantly pouring more laborers into Hawaii—into the mainland, too, though not so numerously, since the proportion of laborers to total Japanese population is much higher than in California.

In the decade there were 57,871 alien Japanese admitted to the islands. This total does not include Hawaiian-born Japanese returning from visits or schooling in Japan, since they are American citizens. In the same period 27,993 aliens departed for Japan. Such of them as went within the last three years may return even though they are laborers, in addition, many of them are children, born in Japan, and when their schooling is completed they will return to their parents in Hawaii.

Japan's statistics of departures to Japan for the ten years give a total of 41,582. A wide discrepancy that, between our total and theirs—13,691. The explanation is this, that in the decade 13,669 Japanese children born in the islands went back to Japan for education.

We count them as Americans, not "aliens," while Japan counts them as Japanese. American by birth, they are in fact registered at the Japanese consulate in Honolulu and in Tokyo as Japanese subjects, and they themselves, upon reaching adult age, continue to accept Japanese citizenship with few exceptions, while claiming the rights of American citizenship. That is "dual citizenship," to which Japan stubbornly clings. It is one of the things that must be changed.

Immigration papers tell me that 30,000 is a conservative estimate of the number of school children now in Japan who are entitled to come back, and will, almost without exception, come back to Hawaii.

AMERICANS ARE PUNISHED IN BERGDOLL CASE

German Courts Impose Severe Prison Sentences for Kidnaping Attempt

Mosbach, Baden, Germany, March 23.—The two Yankees attached to the American Army of Occupation who figured in the sensational attempt to capture Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American slacker, have been sentenced to jail by the courts here.

Carl Neuf was sentenced to be imprisoned for 15 months and his companion, Frank Zimmer, received a six months' jail sentence. German accomplices of the Americans were given sentences ranging from 6 to 11 months.

bushed by the Republicans and violent fighting followed.

Six civilians were killed in a fight between Irish Republicans and Crown forces at Blarney. The Central News correspondent said that fighting broke out while the Crown forces were searching for hidden arms. They were attacked and returned the fire of the civilians with deadly accuracy.

Since Sunday twenty-one soldiers, nine policemen and ten Republicans have been killed. In addition, eighteen others who had no direct connection with either the crown forces or the Sinn Fein met death.

More than 100 persons were wounded. Among the wounded were a woman and a child who were struck by flying bullets during an ambuscade of crown forces in this city at 9 o'clock last night. Both were said to be dying this morning.

Two brothers named Skelton were found dead in a field near Enniscorthy. Both had been shot through the head. The arms were bound, and upon the breast of each was a card reading:

"A convicted spy."

The men had evidently been members of the Republican army, but had been convicted by a Sinn Fein court-martial of giving information to the British military and police authorities.

GIRL DETECTIVE ADMITS SHE IS DRUG ADDICT

A sensational story was related on the witness stand to Commissioner Hays at the Federal Building by Miss Elisabeth Houde, a nurse and self-confessed drug user, who said she was employed by Deputy Revenue Collector Scannell to get evidence in a "dope" case.

She appeared for the prosecution in the case against George "Snuffy" Garden and Harry Eisman, and testified that she had worked for Scannell for three months, and that she required two doses of morphine a day.

She claimed that she met Eisman, a taxi driver, who took her to a West End house where she secured morphine from Gordon. On another occasion, she testified, she paid $45 to Gordon for an ounce of morphine, the money being supplied by the government agent.

men who are not afraid of work and are willing to go away from home and back to the soil to sensible lives.

"I've been a bond salesman. I'm through with that. Now its California for us by easy stages, and then a stock farm."

"I'm going to be a farmer's wife," said Mrs. Davis. She allowed she did not know much of farming, but said "Tubbie" was being her husband —would show her.

"Tubbie has been to California and knows a lot about stock farms already," she said.

Tubbie at one point in the talk waxed sarcastic. "I can see how our marriage might have interested the public," said he, "if any of the usual elements were there. But they are not. Our marriage is not the product of a wild party.

NOT A BOOZE FIGHTER.

"I know my wife and loved her, and wanted her for two years. I am no booze fighter, just an ordinary, decent American, I hope. She is no wondrous lady of the chorus. She has never drank a cocktail in her life. She knows more about sewing on buttons than about pink teas.

"I think a girl like that is the kind of girl to take to a farm with you.

"Unfortunately neither of us was ever engaged before and neither of us wanted to marry anybody but the one we did marry, so shortly we shall turn our faces away from the artificialities of the city and go where all the good Boston people went before us—out West.

"'Go West, young man, go West,' is our slogan again, for the best people of Boston have always left it. That's what's the matter with those who remain.

"Our marriage is a perfectly regular, honorable, wholesome love match. We are two people who are not afraid to work. We have ideals. One of those is independence of action in all the vital things.

That's why we got married. And realising the solemnity of our vows we shall now like good Americans try to make the country wholesome and decent so far as two peoples work can make it. That's why we are going to farming." Mrs. Davis nodded her head as much as to say, "those are my sentiments, too."

The fire cracked on the Garland hearth and young millionaire Jimmie Garland and his pretty wife also nodded their heads. Mrs. Garland said, "Alice is a dear. And we think 'Tubbie' Davis is a very lucky man." And Mrs. Davis blushed.

FASHIONS NOTHING TO US.

W. Fitch Ingersoll, a youngster from Louisiana, is spending his Easter holidays with the Garlands wished: "Gee!" that "he could ge married and have all this excitement and his picture in the paper." "Gee!" he thought it was "fun marrying the girl you wanted just like that and whether or no."

"I want our life to be very successful because I have married the best man I know and I want to do my share—at farming," said Mrs. Davis. "Its all very strange to me—this new life.

"But our friends Mr. and Mrs. Garlan are so sympathetic. Fashion means nothing to either of us, but just simple work and love and play—all the old-fashioned things.

"So now we are going to work together. Only—Tubbie'll have to show me—or else I will never know how—to become a farmer's wife."

FIRE DRIVES OUT MANY FAMILIES

Residents of the five-story brick apartment house at No. 378 Columbus avenue, South End, were driven to the street today by a fire which practically destroyed the stock of the Back Bay Loan Company on the street floor, gained considerable headway, and when the firemen arrived the flames were mushrooming up an airshaft to the upper floors.

The flames were confined to the street and first floor, but the entire house was filled with smoke. The loss was estimated by the police at $16,000. The property was owned by Hannah Donahued.

LEGION EXPELS ANDERSON FOR UTTERANCES

Lieutenant-Colonel Tried by N. Y. Chapter Because of 'Horror of Rhine' Meeting

New York, March 23.—Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander Anderson, formerly of the 166th Infantry, was expelled from the American Legion early today because of his utterances at the "Horror on the Rhine" mass meeting in Madison Square Garden.

He was ousted by the New York County chapter of the organization following a trial on the charges which began early last evening in the Hotel Pennsylvania and lasted until after midnight.

Anderson won high honors in the World War. He was a member of the old 69th New York Regiment, rising from the ranks to the second highest officer in the unit.

The meeting at which Lieutenant-Colonel Anderson spoke was arranged to protest against the use of negro troops on the Rhine by the French.

MRS. LEEDS SELECTED FITTINGS FOR STILLMAN YACHT BOUDOIR

EX-SHOW GIRL'S LIFE ON SHIP WITH BANKER IS REVEALED

old infant of Mrs. Stillman, and gave the lawyer until Saturday to file additional papers bearing upon this issue.

"We have tendered a stipulation to the effect that the plaintiff is able to pay any reasonable sum to the defendant that your honor might allow," said Nicoll. "But it would be explained that there were several deductions from Mr. Stillman's gross income, including Federal tax, which left the amount about $250,000.

"In considering the question before you, your honor may take these facts for your guidance. Mr. Stillman believes and the evidence proves that she was a lover an Indian grade by who mske had a child.

"Mr. Stillman must now either acknowledge this child or repudiate it. Six witnesses will show that the friendship of this lady for this Indian guide began in 1916 and continued after the birth of her child and through 1918. Mr. Stillman therefore feels that it is his duty to his father's memory, to his children and to his family to press this action. Had there been any other way of ascertaining the legitimacy of the child we would have taken that course.

"But there is no other way under our laws to prove the legitimacy of the child other than by the present action.

"Mr. Stillman desires to be fair and generous. Mrs. Stillman must defend herself and the legitimacy of her child."

After Mr. Nicoll had finished John F. Brennan, attorney of record for Mrs. Stillman in the Westchester, uDtchess and Putnam county courts arose and addressed the court.

"Let us take this case and get down to brass tacks," said Mr. Brennan. "We are not here asking for generosity. We are here to assert our rights. We want an opportunity to find out what these warrior-like people are up to in the wilds of Canada and we want especially to know what they have to do with this case."

Mrs. Leeds Hid on Yacht as Friends Visited Stillman

(Copyright, 1921, by Universal Service and Star Company.)

New York, March 23.—In a amazing story of life aboard the Modesty, palatial yacht of James A. Stillman, with Mrs. Florence H. Leeds occupying the sumptuous boudoir, was told for the first time today.

Direct from the lips of one who worked on the yacht and knew the intimate doings of those who sailed their seas and nights in the $350,000 floating palace comes the tale of astounding incidents.

It tells how Mrs. Percy Rockefeller, sister of Stillman, and other important guests in Mabelle Gilman Corbin's set visited the yacht, creating the necessity for "keeping the Leeds girl out of sight."

It tells how a millionaire friend of Stillman, John A. Preston, spent one night recently and "banked" aboard another yacht in Miami harbor, presumably because Prentice had come to his own conclusions about the relations of Stillman and the Leeds chorus girl.

The story tells of another woman whom "Mrs. Leeds" considered a formidable rival for the affections of Stillman and how on one occasion "Mrs. Leeds" searched the yacht from stern to stern in an effort to see if the rival was secreted on the Modesty.

Will Tell Truth if Called to Court

The story is presented just as it came from the lips of Frank Murphy, who until a few days ago was chief steward of the Modesty. Murphy has just arrived in New York on the City of Montgomery, of the Savannah line.

He is registered by a name other than his own at a hotel. Frantic efforts have been made by detectives and attorneys to gain his ear. To all questions he has returned the same answer:

"I like Mr. Stillman. He is a fine man. My sympathies, however, are with Mrs. Stillman in her present difficulties, and I intend to do anything I can to help her clear her name. I shall not volunteer any statement but if I am subpoened in any court action, I shall be forced to tell the truth as I know it.

"And, if I tell my story, I do not see how any court in the land can avoid granting Mrs. Stillman an absolute decree of divorce."

Fitting in startlingly with information that has come to Mrs. Stillman's attorneys from Miami, Murphy asserted that detectives within the past three weeks gathered special information for Mrs. Stillman in the Florida resort city.

Detectives' Visit Excites Mrs. Leeds

These detectives, disguised as fishermen and attired in oilskin and dungarees, rowed to the Modesty while they secured information of the greatest value to Mrs. Stillman to her extraordinarily detailed affidavits against the President of the National City Bank.

The detectives approached Captain Edward Wawherts, First Mate Charles Knutson, Launchman Andrews, Chief Engineer Lee Matthews and the eight members of the crew of the Modesty and asked them how they'd like a trip to New York. "Jim" Stillman, receiving reports of these feverish activities, said coolly:

"I wonder why they are watching me?"

Nevertheless, the master of the boat issued instant orders for a strict watch to be posted on the yacht and ordered "shades down on all portholes."

Mrs. "Leeds" received the news differently. She grew intensely excited. Two weeks ago last Saturday, Stillman received a telegram from New York and left hurriedly. His friend, Prentice, joined him. A day or two later Mrs. "Leeds" worried and upset, said:

"I am expecting Jack to leave at any time."

On Monday, March 14, she did leave for Havana.

She was accompanied only by Bertha Peirce, her companion. Her little 31-months-old son, "Jay Ward Leeds" and the Peirce "Jessie" and by Stillman "Jay, Jr.," was left behind.

Crew Members Call Yacht Immodesty.

While superintending the cartage of a small steamer trunk, Mrs. Leeds said:

"I don't know where I'll end or where I am going."

Frank Murphy went to work for Stillman in March, 1920. He was employed first in the Stillman town house, at No. 279 Park avenue, and then went aboard the "Modesty" as soon as the vessel was commissioned.

"This was in the middle of August, 1920," Murphy said.

"The 'Modesty' was built by the Morris Heights Shipbuilding company on the Harlem River. It was one of the most magnificent motor yachts ever built—125 feet long, 18-foot beam. With its wonderful interior fittings, supervised by Mrs. Leeds and a firm of New York decorators, it cost Mr. Stillman, I am told, $250 000.

"The 'Modesty' (we call it the 'Immodesty' now), was to be a present for Mrs. Stillman, I was told. As a matter of fact I never seen Mrs. Stillman aboard. In fact, I never saw Mrs. Stillman.

"Mrs. Leeds picked 'the Modesty's' decorations. The same firm decorated the beautiful little villa she purchased for $50,000 in Miami.

"I saw Mrs. Leeds first the day the 'Modesty' was commissioned — August 15 last, as I recall. She came to the ship yard with Mr. Stillman in an automobile. They were the only guests when the yacht took the ways. Mrs. Leeds christened the vessel with a bottle of cider—no champagne was handy.

ALARM FELT FOR CARDINAL GIBBONS

Aged Prelate Takes Decided Turn for the Worse After Relapse

Baltimore, Mr., March 23.—Alarm was again felt early today over the condition of Cardinal Gibbons which is reported to have taken a decided turn for the worse. Prayers for the Cardinal have been asked in all churches of the archdiocese for next Sunday.

The prelate has been confined to his bed since Sunday when he suffered a relapse of heart action, and became weaker.

WATCH SEEKONK SHORES FOR WOMAN SUICIDE

Pawtucket, March 22.—A close watch is being kept along the shores of the Seekonk river for the body of Mrs. Elsie Chappell, wife of Leonard Chappell, of No. 42 Dunnell avenue, who committed suicide by jumping into the water early Monday evening. Thus far no trace of the body has been discovered.

The river was dragged for several hours Monday evening and yesterday morning by Pawtucket police but the grappling irons failed to find it. It is probable that the tide carried the body down the river for some distance and that it will be found along the shores within three or four days.

J. O. HAYDEN, SOMERVILLE PUBLISHER, IS DEAD

President Joseph O. Hayden of the Somerville Savings Bank, and treasurer of Middlesex County since 1836, is dead at his home, No. 174 Summer street, Somerville, aged seventy-four years.

Mr. Hayden had also been publisher of the Somerville Journal for the past forty-four years.

For the last month he had been confined to his home, although he has been in failing health for about two years.

BIG FOUR WORKERS REFUSE PAY CUT

Cincinnati, O., March 23.—Unskilled labor of the Big Four Railroad will accept no reduction in wages, according to decision reached at a meeting here of railway employes representatives. Notice to this effect has been served on the railway management and also notice that appeal would be made to the Labor Board by the railway workers.

ARRESTED IN AUTO LOADED WITH WHISKEY

Springfield, March 23.—Joseph Germain of Slatersville, R. I., was arrested here by federal agents for violation of the Volstead act. He had a car loaded with 200 quarts of Canadian whiskey. The officers chased Germain from this city to Palmer before overhauling him. U. S. Commissioner John Alice held Germain in $500 bail for hearing April 4.

ALARM FELT FOR DAUGHTER SUES PARENT FOR BEATING HER

Rozmuses Objected to Fiance, Says Mrs. Zibnick, Who Now Claims $20,000 Damages

Manchester, N. H., March 23.—Mrs. Katherine Zibnick, daughter of a well known Polish family here, today took the stand again in her suit to recover $20,000 damages from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antoni Rozmus, for alleged injuries received in 1917 when they opposed her marriage to Zibnick.

The trial, which is being held in the Hillsboro Superior Court before Judge Branch, has attracted much attention and the court room was filled today.

In her testimony, which began at the session yesterday, Mrs. Zibnick declared when she told her parents that she wanted to marry her husband they lost their tempora and beat her severely. These beatings, she testified, were repeated frequently, and were accompanied by other forms of physical violence.

On one occasion, she said, when she refused to surrender the man she loved, her parents whipped her and then knocked her against a hot radiator.

It is upon the injuries which she alleges she received at that time that she is basing her suit. She charges that she suffered hurts to her head which resulted in bringing on a fit to which she has been subject ever since. She denies deing the allegations made by the daughter.

DOCTOR WINS WOMAN'S SUIT FOR X-RAY BURN

Rutland, Vt., March 23.—A verdict for the defendant was entered in Rutland County Court in the case of Elizabeth Dean of Danby versus Dr. W. G. Hodsdon of this city. The verdict was rendered following the admission by counsel for the plaintiff that the case was unprepared and that the plaintiff had no testimony to offer. The plaintiff alleged in the declaration that she was severely and permanently burned by an X-ray used by the physician.

HARDING COMMUTES MacKNIGHT'S SENTENCE

President Harding has commuted the five-year sentence imposed upon Herman P. MacKnight. A telegram received by United States Marshal Duane from Attorney General Daugherty instructed the marshal to see that MacKnight was released from the Greenfield jail, where he is serving his time, without delay. MacKnight was convicted a little more than a year ago of using the mails to defraud in connection with a land scheme in North Carolina.

SEEKS DAUGHTER AND $150 REPORTED MISSING

Lawrence, March 23.—Angelo Brocato, of No. 55 Newbury street, is seeking his fifteen-year-old daughter, Theresa, a pupil at the Oliver Grammar School, who disappeared Monday with $150. She is described as five feet in height, brown eyes, brown hair, and weighs 100 pounds. She wore a navy blue dress and brown velvet coat when last seen.

"CONFESSED" MURDERER NOW ACCUSES ANOTHER

Warsaw, Ind., March 23.—"Legro John" Iavagnilo, of Elkhart, killed Leroy Lovett, according to a new "confession" by Virgil Decker, seventeen-year-old farm hand, charged with the murder. Decker repudiated a previous confession that he (Decker) committed the crime.

WIFE NO. 4 SUES DANIEL R. HANNA FOR DIVORCE

Papers Against Son of Famous Ohio Senator Filed in Pittsfield; Alimony Sought

Pittsfield, March 23.—Daniel R. Hanna, son of the late Senator Mark A. Hanna of Ohio, is made defendant in a suit for divorce filed in the Berkshire Superior Court here by his fourth wife, Mrs. Molly Covington Hanna, who charges cruelty and abuse to infant and seeks alimony. The case probably will be heard in April.

As owner of the 1,000-acre stock farm at Stockbridge, which he recently deeded to his wife two weeks after his marriage on December 18, 1916, Mrs. Hanna claims that, now as then, legal residence. She spent the Winter with her sister, Mrs. Carrie Morgan, at their old home in Nichols Grove, N. J. Hanna built for Mrs. Morgan, the daughter-in-law of John D. Rockefeller. His Stockbridge property has cost him more than half a million dollars.

For the past year Hanna has made his home at Ossining, N. Y. When Mrs. Hanna visited her former husband at Ossining, last July, she claimed servants on his orders locked the doors upon her.

Mrs. Hanna also said at the time that she had driven from the house a young woman "who described herself as Hanna's secretary." Hanna denied a statement shortly after the episode declaring that he had left his wife "because of her jealousy" of his private affairs.

A $50,000 jewel robbery at the Stockbridge villa in August, 1919, never has been solved.

The present Mrs. Hanna was the divorced wife of John H. Worden, a Standard Oil magnate of Philadelphia. She is forty-five and Hanna is sixty. Hanna's first wife was Miss May Harrington, who divorced him twenty-five years ago. They had two children.

His second wife was Mrs. Mabel Bates Hand, divorced wife of a British army officer. She was Miss Dabo Gordon. Wife No. 3 was Mrs. Mary Eleanor Kelly, with whom he established a home at Ravenna, O., in 1907. They had three daughters. She was granted a divorce on statutory grounds October 12, 1916.

THREE HURT, TWO HELD, IN REVERE ACCIDENT

Thrown out of their auto when the machine skidded into an electric light pole on the Revere Beach Boulevard near Revere street, three men had narrow escapes from death. The car was taken to the station of the Metropolitan Park police, where first aid was given them by Dr. Joseph Ferris.

Frank Corvi, twenty-seven years old, of No. 271 Paris street, East Boston, driver of the car, was later taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital with a broken shoulder, probably internal injuries and multiple minor bruises. Edward D. Dupuis, twenty years old, of No. 11 Maverick street, East Boston, was treated at the station for minor cuts and bruises, and William Squegler of No. 11 Everett street, East Boston, for abrasions and contusions.

Corvi was arrested for operating an auto under the influence of liquor and for drunkenness, and Napolitano was charged with drunkenness. Squegler was not held by the police.

PROF. PAHLOW'S WIFE IS CLEARED OF "SEX" CHARGE

Princeton, N. J., March 23.—Professor Edwin W. Pahlow, school master of the exclusive Lawrenceville school and the allegations which followed that his wife's alleged sex instruction to Lawrenceville students had been the cause, it is believed, of the situation in Pahlow's former home, faced Head Master Dr. Mather Abbott and parents from him a reluctant refutation of the reports. The mystery of Professor Pahlow's dismissal remained unsolved, however. The sex instruction allegedly given by his wife in an interview with Mrs. Pahlow, who was then staying with her sister in Reading, Mass.

GIRL SUES PARENTS FOR $20,000; CLAIMS ATTACK

Manchester, N. H., March 23.—Mrs. Katherine Zeebnic testified against her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antoni Rozmus, who she is suing in the Superior Court for damages of $20,000 for personal injuries, which she alleges were received when she was attacked by them. Mrs. Zebnic alleges that her health was impaired because of the treatment of her parents, who sought to prevent her from receiving the attentions of the man to whom she is now married.

TWO SUSPECTS JAILED IN ATTACK ON WOMAN

Two men, one colored, were arrested by plain clothes men attached to the Roxbury Crossing station and booked as suspicious persons in connection with the brutal assault and robbery committed shortly before noon yesterday on Mrs. Matilda Foye at her home, No. 1287 Tremont street, Roxbury. Both men were taken into custody shortly after the robbery.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE AFTER HUSBAND DROPS DEAD

Atlantic City, N. J., March 22.—Mrs. Samuel Owens, thirty-five years old, whose husband, a former Pittsburgh physician, dropped dead as he was entering a bank at Ventnor, was found dead at her home here, the room being filled with gas. Police said she evidently had ended her life because of grief. She married the doctor in Pittsburgh six months ago.

Love Suit Heard

The breach of promise case of Miss C. Hebb of Boston, a domestic, against Michael J. Coutas of No. 678 Shawmut avenue, restaurant proprietor, was resumed before Judge Brown and a Suffolk jury today.

MAYOR ASKS FOR PREMIUMS BILL DEFEAT

In Letter to Legislators He Points Out Danger of Higher Rates to the Public

Mayor Peters today appealed to the members of the Legislature in a personal letter to vote against the $36,000,000 capitalization of premiums bill.

The Mayor and Arthur D. Hill, the corporation counsel, who also signed the letter, declared that in their judgment the scheme of the combined gas and electric corporations "involves serious duplication of overcapitalization and of attempts to exact an excessive return from the public."

The letter continues: "It reverses the state's policy of regulation over these corporations, they said, adding that the bill "creates an emergency premium which would take away the right of the people to pass upon it, and that the corporations have opposed an exhaustive study of the entire situation by the State Department of Public Utilities.

Mayor Peters and Mr. Hill declared they were united with the City Council in opposition to the bill.

SOVIET TROOPS HOLD BATUM, AMERICANS FLEE

Washington, March 23.—Soviet troops are in possession of Batum and all Americans and citizens of allied nations who wished to do so have been permitted to leave, according to dispatches in the state department today from S. K. Moser, American consul at Batum, who has arrived at Constantinople on an American destroyer. Press dispatches to the department said that the other nationals now left Batum on an Italian warship for Constantinople. The American destroyer was the last to leave. It is explained unofficially that, while the Turkish nationals are also with the soviets in line, the establishment of soviet forces was the reason for the evacuation of the nationals of nations which do not recognize the Soviet government.

"NATURE'S NOBLEMAN" MACHINISTS' FOREMAN

George Edwin Leason, of No. 66 Hollis street, Lynn, who was referred to as one of "nature's noblemen" by Dr. Ira Bradshaw, has settled in the Suffolk Probate Court, is employed as foreman in the plant of the American Machine Tool Company on Hyde Park avenue. Mr. Leason receives the residue of Dr. Bradshaw's estate. The latter left nothing to his sister, cutting her off, and in a clause said: "I do not wish Mrs. Hollis Holt (who is my sister in name only) or her heirs to have any part of my money. I may say as she is not entitled to the same, either legally or morally." Mrs. Holt lives in Pasadena, Cal.

TO QUIZ MUTINEERS ABOUT N. Y. EXPLOSION

New Orleans, March 23.—Department of Justice officials here today will question the crew of the United States Shipping Board steamship Rushville are being held on a charge of mutiny on the high seas and not in connection with the explosion in West street, New York, which caused thirty-one deaths and injury to a number of persons last September. The men, they said, will be questioned in an effort to find out if they know something of the disaster, but that they will be given a hearing always followed out with men arrested.

RUSSELLS PATCH UP MARITAL DISPUTE

A "friendly settlement" has been reached in the family differences of Joseph W. and Mrs. Russell of South Lynnfield, it was learned today. It is decided that the couple separate without prejudice; he is to pay $19 a week for support of their two children, and be allowed to see the children at reasonable times. The court decree permits the wife to live separately, but strikes out the clause "for justifiable cause." Though Mr. Russell has accused his wife that she may return, she has refused.

MILK AND ICE MEN TURN BOOTLEGGERS

New York, March 23. — The New York milk man and milk man believes in the law of supply and demand. In other words he has turned bootlegger in thousands of individual instances and is peddling "bootch" to his women customers under the guise of selling ice and milk, declares a statement issued by the Federal prohibition enforcement agent here. The milk-and-cart ice venders have reduced the business to an art and can tell by the rising inflection of their customers' voice whether it is ice or moonshine that is wanted.

British to Censor Bathing Suits

London, March 24.—The British Government, shocked at the style models of 1921 bathing suits for women, has decided upon censorship.

Government control of women's bathing costumes has been established and Sir Aadison, minister of public health, has been appointed bathing costume controller. A circular letter is being sent to the authorities at seaside towns suggesting that laws be enacted making it an offense for persons of either sex to wear a costume that does not extend from the neck to within four inches of the knee. Bathing officials claim such regulations would keep away many women who visit the shore to show off their costumes and their personal charms.

HAMILTON MAN DEAD IN AUTO CRASH

Driver of Car Which Hit Motorcycle in Ipswich Is Arrested

Following a crash in which J. William O'Brien, twenty-seven years old, of Hamilton, received injuries from which he died, and Richard Wilkinson was slightly hurt, Fred Wentworth of Merrimac was arrested charged with manslaughter. An auto driven by Wentworth collided with a motorcycle ridden by O'Brien and Wilkinson on Rowley road, Ipswich.

O'Brien died from a fractured skull while being taken to a hospital. He was employed by the United Shoe Machinery Company, and leaves a widow and five children.

Wentworth was driving John Donovan of Bradford, Miss Louise Roy of Merrimac and Miss Elizabeth Leroy of Amesbury to a backpark ranch when the crash occured. The occupants of the auto escaped injury.

DROWNING OF STUDENT STOPS COLLEGE HAZING

Syracuse, N. Y., March 23.—As the result of the accidental drowning in the canal at Oswego of James A. Garvey, 20, of Hudson, N. Y., a freshman at the Normal school, a stupid hazing has been placed on hazing at the institution. It was learned today. Garvey's drowning occurred at the coroner's inquest by classmates, following a scuffle on the bridge while in pursuit with a number of other freshmen of sophomore class officers kidnaped in preparation for the "frosh" class dinner.

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD HYDE PARK GIRL IS MISSING

The disappearance of Miss Agnes Pinault, sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Pinault of No. 744 Hyde Park avenue, has caused grave concern to her parents and they have appealed to the police to help them find her. The girl left home on Monday afternoon and took some clothing along with her. Her parents reported to Captain Edward F. Grant of the Hyde Park police station, that she was slightly demented.

PROVIDENCE PRIEST HURT IN AUTO SPILL

Taunton, March 23.—Rev. Charles Cunningham of the Cathedral Church of St. Francoise, R. I., received serious injuries here when a front tire of his automobile collapsed, causing the machine to turn turtle.

The priest was thrown through the windshield and received a fracture of the skull.

At the hospital early today it was said that he had partly regained consciousness and was improving.

ARRESTED AT BEDSIDE OF SICK WIFE

E. Allan Mitchell Salesman, Charged With $2,050 Stock Theft

E. Allan Mitchell, a stock salesman with offices in the Board of Trade Building, Boston, was arrested in the Union Hospital, Lynn, at the bedside of his wife, who is about to become a mother.

He was taken into custody on a warrant charging him with the theft of $2,050 worth of stock of the Fertilizer Corporation of New England from Fred E. Puffer of No. 23 Summer street, Boston.

Despite the pleas of the sick woman and his own request to be allowed to remain with her, Mitchell was removed from the hospital to Lynn police headquarters by Detectives Henry Hoxan of the Lynn force, and later turned over to Detective Morris Wolf and Inspector Albert Carnes of Boston, to be taken to that city.

According to the statement of the officers, the warrant charges that on February 5th, Mitchell sold to Puffer several hundred dollars worth of stock in the Finance Corporation, and at later sold more than $2,000 worth of the same stock to Puffer.

Some weeks later he is alleged to have returned to Puffer and told him of the stock of the Tufts Fertilizer Company of Rumford, Me., and Manchester N. H., and according to the allegation made by Puffer, suggested that the latter allow him to exchange the stock in the Finance Corporation for stock in the Fertilizer company.

After some hesitancy, Puffer allegedly, he agreed to do this and claims to have turned his finance stock over to Mitchell in exchange for the other securities. Mitchell is alleged to have taken the finance stock but, according to the warrant, has failed to return that stock or to turn over the stock in the fertilizer company to Puffer.

LYNN MAN FINED $15 AS "PEEPING TOM"

Judge Stevens in Lynn Court today, fined Thomas Bouchard, sixty years old, $15, on a charge of disorderly conduct. Bouchard was arrested by Inspector Dwyer on Western avenue, while staring through a window of a lodging house, into a room in which two women were preparing for bed. Thomas Shea, who has been watching that section of Lynn for several nights, said that a number of complaints were received regarding the annoyance caused the residents by a Peeping Tom.

2 WOMEN SAVE LYNN BOY FROM DROWNING

While playing on the bank of a pond near his home, Wilbur E. Perkins, Jr., aged three years, of No. 14 Cottage street, Lynn, fell and was thrown into the water, when the bank collapsed. He was rescued from drowning by Mrs. James Cronin and Mrs. Bernard Marshall, neighbors.

PROVIDENCE HAS 'LADY RAFFLES' MYSTERY

Finding of Strange Hairpin Leads Police to Believe Breaks Work of Woman

Providence, March 23.—A "Lady Raffles" is at work in this city. Of this the police are confident, and strenuous efforts are being made to apprehend her.

Her presence here was discovered in the finding of a hairpin in the home of Antone Moniz, No. 131 Transit street, after the house had been entered by use of a false key and looted. The hairpin is not the property of any member of the family nor does it belong to any of the neighbors who visited the house prior to the robbery.

The Moniz family are the heaviest losers of several families whose homes have been robbed recently. Moniz reported to the police that $100 was stolen from a bureau drawer and Lena Moniz complained that the sum of $8 and several rings of hers were taken. Mary Moniz reports the loss of a silver flag, gold pins and gold beads.

The house was entered through a side door. After getting in the thief went to work in systematic fashion, apparently disturbing nothing. The police say this fact points to a woman's work, as men generally leave clothing strewn about the floor and drawers pulled out. Several other breaks that have been called to the attention of the police within the past few days resembled the Moniz job in workmanship, they say.

In all instances the breaks have occurred in the daytime, and only money and jewelry have been taken.

SHIPMENTS OF HARD COAL BREAK RECORDS

Philadelphia, March 23.—Anthracite shipments in February broke all records for that month, according to the Anthracite Bureau of Information. The output last month was 5,988,103 gross tons, as compared with 5,675,963 tons in February, 1912, the previous record.

U. S. TO PRESS CLAIMS AGAINST BRITAIN

Senators Investigate London's Silence About Compensation for Seized Ships

By International News Service.

Washington, March 23.—Great Britain's persistent silence regarding claims growing out of her seizure of American vessels, goods and mails and of her interference with the American trade, both before and after the entry of the United States into the World War is being quietly investigated by Republican members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, it was disclosed today.

The whole subject probably will be opened up in the Senate at the earliest opportunity. A mass of papers bearing upon it are now in the committee's possession, having been furnished by former Secretary of State Colby on the eve of his retirement from office in response to a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Lodge, Republican, of Massachusetts, the committee chairman, which called upon the State Department for full information respecting American claims against the British government.

An examination of these papers just completed by Senator Lodge revealed that, although Colby had officially inquired of the British government as long ago as August 18 of last year as to what it proposed to do with respect to the adjustment of American claims, no final reply had ever been received by him. He indicated that, though most of the claims had been outstanding since before the American declaration of war against Germany, efforts of the State Department to effect a settlement of them had proven unavailing.

FRANCE WANTS TO SEIZE MINES

Drastic Action to Force Germany to Pay to Be Demanded by Paris

Paris, March 23.—The new situation created by the allies' indemnity penalties upon Germany and Germany's claim for all of Upper Silesia probably will result in an early conference of the Inter-Allied Supreme Council at which France will demand final drastic measures to compel German obedience. It was reliably reported today.

The allied reparations commission held a meeting to consider the German note rejecting the allies' ultimatum that Germany pay one billion gold marks immediately.

Germany not only refused to pay the 1,500,000,000 gold marks, but contended that the allies were wrong in their contention that Germany owes any of the 26,000,000,000 gold marks due from her before May 1 under the terms of the treaty of Versailles.

It is understood that the reparations commission will confer with the various allied governments before there is a decisive decision, but there are reports that further sanctions will be authorized, including the seizure of the coal mines in the Ruhr district and of German industries.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 25c per box. All druggists.

TO GIVE MUSICALE FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS

In Bates Hall, Y. M. C. A. building, Huntington avenue, Friday night Madame Alice Baschi will stage a musicale in aid of the wounded soldiers at West Roxbury. Dorothy Parker, a noted soloist, will accompany Madame Baschi on the piano, and Barbara Werner Schwab will give several violin selections. No fee is required for admission.

The affair will be held under the auspices of the New England Harmonic Association, an organization formed to furnish music for ex-service men suffering from shell-shock.

CHELSEA ROBBERS GET SMALL BOOTY

Two small breakes were reported to the Chelsea police. Fred Poletano reported his barber shop, No. 264 Spruce street, was entered and $4.60 taken. Sophie Goldman complained that her home, No. 44 Essex street, was broken into and a pocketbook and a quantity of change stolen.

CENSORSHIP TRANSFER BILL PUT OVER A YEAR

The bill to transfer from Mayor Cenaor John F. Casey to the Boston Licensing Board the power to license and regulate public amusements in Boston was reported by the legislative committee on cities with the recommendation that it be referred to the next Legislature. The bill had previously been reported favorably and had taken a couple of readings in the House when it was referred back to the committee for further hearings. At today's meeting, William J. Conlon, the petitioner, said he had no desire to press it at this time.

EATS EVERYTHING THAT COMES ALONG, NO MORE DIET

"As you have been a Godsend to me, that is 'a friend in need is a friend indeed,' I will write and tell you about the value of your medicine—Dr. True's Elixir—believe me it done me good. I eat everything that comes along, no more diet. I even tried raw onions for a test. Is that not luck after nine years only milk and eggs?" Mrs. J. E. (Nutley, N. J.)

Here is one of thousands of cases where Dr. True's Elixir has helped. Sufferers of constipation and indigestion must have a Laxative—it is essential to good health. Try Dr. True's Elixir; it will surely win your thanks. Easy to take—mild—no harmful drugs.—Adv.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

ONLY ONE MORE REPRINT OF $5,000 TEST PICTURES

There will be but one more re-print of Movie-Play Title Test pictures. One more and ONLY one more!

Watch for an early announcement of the FINAL appearance of Back Pictures.

The only reason for another re-print is that many participants want them, need them, ask for them.

The reason that there will be only ONE more re-print is that some participants object to ANY.

We approach the printing of Test Picture No. 30, the halfway point in the Test. It will be assumed that readers who have not entered the Test at that time are not and will not be interested in it. With the appearance of Picture No. 30, therefore, the Test will settle down to a day-by-day affair, for those who have joined at that time.

All that participants in the Test are required to do is to write the answer of the 60 Test Pictures. The 219 awards will be paid to those readers of the Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser who send in the largest percentage of correct titles to the 60 pictures.

Test Picture No. 25 is printed today on the Picture Page, together with a List of Titles which includes the CORRECT title to No. 25. The test has thirty-five days to go. The pictures appear on week-days in this newspaper and on Sundays in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Each and every Test Picture has been drawn to illustrate or suggest the TITLE of some motion-picture play. They are printed without titles. Participants are to write the titles. Those who write correct titles—and enough of them—will share in the distribution of Five Thousand Dollars.

Remember that the correct title of each of the Test Pictures will be found in the List of Titles printed on the same day. Bear in mind, however, that the artist was not trying to illustrate motion-picture SCENES. The pictures have nothing to do with "the movies"—or any "movie"—except that they are based upon picture-play TITLES. This is their only connection with the cinema. One does not have to be well informed on shadowland, its plays and its players, in order to earn one of the 219 awards.

Titles are not to be sent in before the end of the Test. Hold them until formal notice is printed in these columns that it is time to send them in. When they have been sent in—at the end of the Test—they will be compared with the Official List of Titles and the following awards will be paid—in cash—to those who have submitted the largest percentages of correct titles:

ONE FIRST AWARD	$1,000
ONE SECOND AWARD	750
ONE THIRD AWARD	500
ONE FOURTH AWARD	400
ONE FIFTH AWARD	300
ONE SIXTH AWARD	200
ONE SEVENTH AWARD	150
ONE EIGHTH AWARD	100
ONE NINTH AWARD	50
100 AWARDS OF $10 EACH	1,000
110 AWARDS OF $5 EACH	550
TOTAL	$5,000

Every participant in the Test should be familiar with the Rules of the Test. They will be found with today's Test Picture and the current List of Titles on the Picture Page. Please read them carefully.

The attention of new comers to the Test is respectfully directed to the List of Co-operating Theatres. These motion picture playhouses show the Test Pictures on the screen at every performance.

After the FINAL printing of Back Pictures—the date probably will be announced tomorrow—participants will find that they MUST get the co-operating theatre to place a standing order with your newsdealer for the Boston American AND the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Back copies of the two newspapers are not on sale at this office. The Title Test Editor is unable to supply them. Occasionally, the newsdealer may have a back copy on hand, but this is not to be relied upon. Give him a standing order. Tell him you must have BOTH newspapers, Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, while the Title Test continues. That will be until about April 28.

Theatres Showing Pictures in $5,000 Test

Again we desire to remind participants in the $5,000 Movie-Play Title Test that the following high-class motion picture theatres are exhibiting the Test Pictures at every performance. On the screen, the pictures look much larger than they do in the newspapers. Participants in the Test are urged to patronize these theatres:

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

When your 'Pep' seems gone

When your "pep" is all gone, Nature has provided a natural tonic for your needs.

It's milk—fresh fluid milk for young and old!

It easily slips into the blood and tissues, and builds NATURALLY, strong nerves, bone and sinew. Nothing else can take its place.

Rich. in tonic iron

SMALL wonder that physicians, dietitians and domestic scientists are urging a wider use of this fine fruit-food! For Sunsweet Prunes are rich in tonic iron and other mineral and laxative elements essential to a properly balanced diet. What's more—they contain more digestible natural fruit sugar than any other fruit. And this sugar is quickly converted into energy—energy that is needed by men and women who work and children who study and play.

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA - 10,000 GROWER-MEMBERS

Says an acknowledged authority on nutrition: "The craving for sweets exhibited in most children and many adults, is a natural demand on the part of the system for a needed food. In using dried fruit [such as Sunsweet Prunes] we obtain not only the nutritive value of the fruit sugar, but whatever other hygienic or medicinal value they may have by virtue of the salts and organic acids found in them. Remember, too, that prunes are rich in tonic iron."

DEMAND GROWS FOR CLOSED MOTOR CARS

Public Realizes It Is an Improvement in Comfort and Convenience

The use of every convenience, every utility, grows as a matter of habit.

When some invention or discovery is made that will benefit everyone, no matter how obvious its merits are, people have to get used to it.

Old habits have a great deal to do with this, and they are not easily shaken off. We get into ruts of thinking and acting that are not easy to get out of.

It has always been so with transportation. In some parts of India today the solid wooden wheeled ox-cart is still being used. And even aside from sentimental reasons people still use horses in spite of the superior comfort, convenience and economy of the automobile.

APPEALED TO INDIVIDUAL.

It took us a long time to make a habit of railway travel. But eventually it became second nature. To think of going a long distance was to think of a train. As a method of transportation it became part of our lives.

Then came the automobile. For the first time in the world's history it supplied an entirely efficient means of individual transportation. It appealed to a fundamental instinct in everyone to go wherever he wished when, how and as he wished. It preserved his identity and individual freedom.

Everyone saw the possibilities in the automobile. If perfected they knew it would revolutionize transportation. And it has.

But it was through the process of an old habit of thought and action giving place to new and it had to be experienced gradually.

The world is getting used to new things, however. So many marvelous inventions have become established utilities in spite of all skepticism that we now accept improvements more quickly. We are putting more trust in our ability to judge and apply our judgment.

CLOSED CAR POPULAR.

So it is with the closed car of today. It is obviously a great improvement in convenience and comfort. And people are realizing it. The popularity of closed car traveling exceeds, in view of the time it has taken, that of any previous motor car type. Motor-wise, it realized this early. They are accomplished travelers and the closed cars presented the highest form of travelling luxury. They have adopted it and are using it for this purpose far more generally than we are.

But it will not be long before the closed car will be the most common means of travel in this country. We already know the dependability and convenience of open models for touring. Added to these is the complete comfort of the enclosed cars in all seasons.

Their protection is a recognized advantage in cold and stormy weather. Their value in fine weather is being more and more appreciated as it is experienced.

The occupants of a closed car can have just the measure of openness they desire. They can protect themselves from sun and dust. They can enjoy privacy. All the dirt and annoyance of travel is eliminated.

ASK MR. FIX IT

Dear Mr. Fixit—Do I use more gasoline running an automobile with new motor? Also, can I do on high speed without disturbing the gas throttle?
R. A. M.
Central Falls, R. I.

You use less gasoline running on low speed than you do with a high speed because with the former speed the motor is turning faster and naturally you burn more fuel. The saving in fuel by losing spark is more than offset by the tendency to overheat the motor and developing other trouble.

Dear Mr. Fixit—I have a model 90 Overland, 1919 series. It never had much power and seems to be getting less if that could be possible. It won't keep up speed and the longer the hill the slower it goes. It is free of carbon, valves O. K. My battery is in good cell. Would this have anything to do with the power? It won't "pick up" or go after the throttle is ½ open. Thanking you in advance, C. A. L.
Haverhill, Mass.

If you set the points in your distributor at 1/32 of an inch (clean of course) and take the strainer out of your carburetor where pipe connects and set your spark plug points at 1/32 of an inch apart I think your trouble will be solved. It is also possible that the time is off. I would suggest that you take your car to the Overland service station, if possible, and talk to Mr. Hawkins, who is an authority on this particular model of car.

Dear Mr. Fixit—I have 32x4 tires on my car. My speedometer gear was lost, and I want to put on another. There are 56 teeth on my wheel and I have been told that a small gear with 13 or 16 teeth will give me the right mileage.
Haverhill.

You should equip your machine with a 56 tooth drive gear and a 16 tooth small gear in order to get the correct mileage.

Dear Mr. Fixit—(1) Will you please settle the following question? As a car that if a machine "runs" when idling and misses in one cylinder when on a hill, or when picking up that the cause is invariably a bad plug. If says there might be other causes, but doesn't know of any.

(2) Please give me names and addresses of three manufacturers of bodies for Fords. Do you know of any firm that makes a specialty of different Ford tops? Would like to get a top for my Ford that is not so high and wide. I have a roadster.
Quincy.

(1) You is right. The trouble in question could be caused from commutator or valves and many other disturbances. (2) If you get in touch with the Red Body Company, No. 290 Newbury street, Boston; Robbins Body Company, No. 1050 Commonwealth avenue, or L. M. Cotton, No. 130 Commonwealth avenue, you will find something "different" in Ford bodies. The Fresno Auto Top Company, Park square, can handle your top problem.

Dear Mr. Fixit—(1) I have a 1916 Maxwell and am having trouble with the grease leaking out at the transmission into the clutch. I have taken it down and put in a new roller bearing and felt washer on the main shaft, so there is no play. I have also plugged up the hole that goes through the gear, but the grease is still leaking. I have tried all kinds of grease, but the result is the same. Can you help me any? I also filled the case with gasoline when I had it out to see if the gas did not leak through. (2) Another thing I would like to know is how to change the starter on this model from 12 volts to 6 volts. I have a 6-volt battery and would like making two 6-volt batteries do. The lights and ignition coil are 6 volts. Do you think I could make the whole system 6 volt by changing the starter?
F. C.

(1) I don't think the grease is leaking from your transmission, but is leaking through the rear main housing. I would suggest that you take the rear axle housing and clutch casing out, remove the fly-wheel and screw winding oil well, which is always the instrument. (2) It is impossible to change the starter from 12 volts to 6 volts without changing the entire electrical equipment of the car.

Do not send stamped return envelopes with your questions.

All answers will appear in this column.

MAY MAKE LIGGETT A LIEUTENANT-GENERAL

Washington, March 23. — Action looking to the promotion of Major General Hunter Liggett to a lieutenant generalship in recognition of his distinguished service in the A. E. F. probably will be initiated in the next Congress. Secretary of War Weeks today said he favored such action and expressed regret that General Liggett retired without the honor.

VOORHIS SEES FINER ROADS IN FUTURE

Nash Motor Company Head Predicts Much Road Work This Spring

"With an aggregate fund of one billion dollars by the Federal government and by the various States, highway construction this year is likely to make healthy progress," says Charles H. Voorhis, vice-president and general sales manager of the Nash Motors Company. "While not all of this fund is available for expenditure at once, there is at the disposal of the various State and county officials money sufficient to begin roadway development this Spring on a large scale.

"The record of the development of transportation is an important page in the history of the world's progress, for as man's means of communication have bettered so has his physical well being improved and his mental growth progressed. Through the medium of good roads those heretofore practically isolated in a small community are brought into close touch with the larger centre of population.

"But while our railroads have been developed to a point that have made them a model for all other nations, our highways until within very recent years have remained but trails.

"With the advent of the motor car and motor truck, the necessity for good roads became apparent. The limited radius of the horse-drawn buggy became entirely insufficient for the gasoline propelled vehicle and there developed a real effort to improve our highways. As a matter of fact, there is no longer any serious opposition to plans advanced for road construction or improvement.

"Most of us, I believe, realize the necessity for permanent highway construction, but few of us make it our business to see that the work actually is accomplished. The highway program to be carried out this year should receive the indorsement of the progressive citizen."

LINCOLN CAR APPEALS TO WOMEN DRIVERS

Measuring up to a standard of automobile quality and mechanical perfection, the new Lincoln cars which attracted so much attention in connection with last week's great motor car display, sound a new note in simplified construction and proven quality.

Women as well as men are finding cars of distinct appeal in this highly refined Lincoln line. The easy change of the quiet is found in every part of the car.

Otis C. Funderburk, president of the Puritan Motor Car Company, in speaking of the car said: "Its service is in-built and so simplified is its design and construction that its operation is almost fool-proof."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FILED AGAINST POTHIER

Seattle, March 22.—Sergeant Roland R. Pothier has been charged with manslaughter in the death of Major Alexander H. Cronkite at Camp Lewis Washington, October 27, 1918. He will be taken from Providence, R. I., where he is held by the Department of Justice, to Tacoma, Wash., for trial. Federal officers say he has confessed in Rhode Island, that he fired the bullet which mortally wounded the officer on the Camp Lewis target range.

A Home Recipe for Gray Hair

Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

Merely get a box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in 2 oz. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use and a $100.00 gold bond come in each box, guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, sadline, coaltar products or their derivatives.

It is safe, does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.—Advertisement.

HAPGOOD RAPS HYPOCRISY OF RICH IN DEBS CASE

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Editorial Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, March 23.—An element that never seems to lessen in the difficulties between the entrenched few and the unprivileged many is the arrogance of the fortunate whenever they feel safe. The Philadelphia Ledger admirably represents the desire of the rich to keep everything they have got and add as much more as possible. It has broken loose in an editorial that requires a little attention. It says:

Norman Hapgood

"Norman Hapgood suggests to his Socialist friends, if such they be, that their plans to picket the White House in protest against the continued imprisonment of Mr. Debs is for the moment inadvisable. Mr. Hapgood counsels the Socialists to wait a couple of months. If by that time Mr. Debs has not been released Mr. Hapgood infers that picketing the White House will be a happy thought and entirely in order.

"Mr. Hapgood's advice, if it may thus be construed, is bad advice. If followed it will inevitably get those who accept it into very serious trouble. This country is in no mood to accept public demonstrations of any sort from those whose record in the time of its peril bears the tint of saffron or is clouded by disloyal thought or deed. No matter what happens to Mr. Debs, the Socialists are not going to picket the White House. That is a settled and established fact."

Debs Himself Called Off Picketing

Oh, is it? How grand and courageous and red-blooded that editorial writer sounds, sitting in his comfortable chair emitting sounding commonplaces to show his superiority to those less haughty than himself. But he is mistaken about his facts. Every arrangement had been made to picket the White House. When my protest was printed it was sent to Eugene Debs and he himself telegraphed and asked to have the picketing called off, in order to give the new administration a fair chance to show whether it had learned anything from the mistakes of Palmer and Wilson in applying Tsarism to opinion.

It is a terrible thing, isn't it, to seek methods of forcing attention to the fact that a hundred and thirty men or so are still rotting in jail because their opinions do not agree with those of the editor of the Philadelphia Ledger? If that editor or owners wants to press his views on the administration he can go down to Washington and have a pleasant, nourishing meal with the Attorney General or the President, or he can hire people to write screeds. It is awful that poor devils, who have no chance to eat with those in power, should seek attention in other ways, after the bitter wrongs against them have lasted too long.

The Ledger does me the honor to head its editorial "The Real Menace" and concludes it thus: "The real menace lurks in the admonition of those who, with plausible words, stir the low browed to action and to violence."

Of course, everybody who works with his hands is a "low brow." What about the real menace of those fat and well-placed souls whose heavy threats and pompous satire are ever at the service of those who need no help, and ever denied to the outcast and the downtrodden?

No Extremists In Agitation

The movement for Debs' release is not in the hands of the extremists. Extremists thrive on persecution, one labor leader after another has consulted me on this case, and every one of them has been self contained, manly, patient, reasonable, a refreshing contrast to the capon-lined bourgeois who make all of our social problems almost impossible of solution.

It is true that these people did not believe in the war, and it is true that I, with many reservations, did. Need I therefore persecute them forever to show how right I was? As I look at what our side is doing in Germany, along the borders of Russia, in Ireland, or in the ranks closing to rush the power of labor in this country, I am not so proud that I care to keep on indefinitely persecuting those of another faith.

LINEMAN KILLED BY LIVE WIRE IN SOMERVILLE

Baldheads to Demand Right to Organize

Greenwich, Ct., March 22.—The baldheads have their domes together here and there may be a hair-pulling contest with the baldheads at the winning end.

John Rodemeyer, founder of the Baldhead Club of America, has been notified that a hearing on the bill for the incorporation of the club will be held in Hartford, April 5, owing to opposition.

Rodemeyer plans to have a number of baldheaded supporters, including politicians and men of prominence, appear for the club. The opposition is coming from the ranks of humorists and others not yet hairless enough for membership in the exclusive bodies.

"Pape's Diapepsin" puts Sour, Gassy, Acid Stomachs in order at once!

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—to you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sick, sour and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour, head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin to help neutralize acidity and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs so little at drug stores.—Advertisement.

ACTORS TO AID IRISH RELIEF DRIVE

Stage and Screen Notables Pledge Support at New York Meeting

New York, March 23.—Support of the stage and the screen for the relief of distress in Ireland was promised a committee appointed to enlist their joint co-operation with the work of raising funds at a dinner in Delmonico's under the auspices of the leading figures of the profession. Morgan J. O'Brien, chairman of the executive committee of the American Committee for Relief in Ireland, presided. James J. Phelan, chairman of the Massachusetts branch, presided.

Aid was pledged to the relief fund drive by the stage and screen notables. On committee appointed to formulate plans are William A. Brady, president of the National Association of the motion picture industry; Sidney R. Cohen, president of Producing Managers' Associations; E. F. Albee, Martin Beck, Samuel S. Schribner, president of the Columbia Amusement Corporations; Joseph Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians; Harry L. Spencer, vice-president of the International Alliance of Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators.

Among speakers were Adolph Zukor, president of Famous Players; Senator James A. Walker, George Barr Baker, Arthur James, Martin Conboy, J. C. Pettijohn, John Emerson, J. J. McCarthy, Captain John F. Lucey, director of the campaign.

VALUABLE CARGO OF CATTLE REACHES BOSTON

With a shipment of thoroughbred cattle, fifty-five head of Aberdeen Angus, thirty-five head of Shorthorns and fifty-five head of half-breed Hunters aboard, the British steamship Rhode Island arrived in Boston from Glasgow, Scotland. The horses are consigned to the Paradise Farm at Peaneck, N. J., while the cattle are for Carpenter & Ross, stock breeders, of Mansfield, O. The shipment is one of the most valuable to arrive here in years. The cattle, including four champion bulls, are valued at $125,000. The horses are worth $8,000.

Buried a Live One in Pauper Grave

New York, March 23.—After being believed dead and buried for over a year, Paul Gosmar, an inventor, amazed the townsfolk of Stapleton, Staten Island, when he suddenly appeared there. Gosmer said he had been in Ohio in connection with an invention for which he had collected $40,000 in royalties.

The body of a man believed to have been Gosmer was discovered in a motorboat in November 1919, and buried in Potters Field.

BRIDE DESERTED 2 WEEKS AFTER WEDDING, IS CLAIM

North Adams, March 23.—Discharged from the army four weeks ago, married at once and deserting his bride two weeks after the wedding, is what Thomas Moore did, according to a story told by his wife in the local court here, where Moore appeared charged with non-support. He is alleged to have dropped his suit case out of a rear window and then to have jumped to the ground. He was arrested at Brockton for the local police. His case was continued in court.

N. H. REAL ESTATE LOANS MAY BE TAX EXEMPTED

Manchester, N. H., March 23.—It is reported that the Legislative Committee on Banking will present a bill at this session providing for the exemption from taxation of real estate loans bearing interest at 6 per cent or less. Figures compiled show that 28 per cent. of deposits are loaned at 5 per cent. or less.

HIGHER RENTS IN LAWRENCE PREDICTED

Lawrence, March 23.—Unless there is a reduction in the costs of building in this city rents will go to higher mark, told the members of the Master Builders Association, which met here to discuss the proposed cut in wages of building tradesmen said to amount to 20 per cent. Mr. Andrews pointed out that the reduction in real estate values will seriously affect Lawrence properties which are heavily mortgaged on war time values.

Please don't gather the impression that my business is wholly profitless. I make some profit. Compared with other profits I think mine are very, very modest. The piano business is only one of my various interests. I do not depend entirely on my piano department for my business welfare. That is why I can and do sell the different makes at such low prices. All Boston and New England people are acquainted with the best makes of pianos and they know that I handle them—new and used—and it is also widely known that I sell them at prices far lower than any other dealer. I am at present conducting a big Cut-Price Cleanup Sale, and I promise the public the wonder piano bargains of piano bargain history. What new make do you want at a saving of many, many dollars?

AUTO AND TIRE ISSUES ARE LEADERS

Price Movement Upward at Outset and Gains Increase in Second Hour

By W. M. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, but below the highest level of the forenoon, profit-taking in the latter part of the morning causing some to react a little. Motor and tire issues were the second hour features, when U. S. Rubber, Lee Tire, General Asphalt and Endicott Johnson joined the higher-than-usual list. The market was active on the advance, first hour transactions aggregating nearly a million shares, and a flurry in shorts was on an extensive scale. Call money opened at 6½ per cent. Demand Sterling was a shade higher, opening at $2.91. Continental rates were irregular.

FIRM AT THE OPENING.

The market had a firm opening, the rally which began late in the preceding session holding over. Initial gains ranged from fractions to about two points. Most of them were small, but they were general and were increased as trading progressed. During the first hour highs for the year were reached by Studebaker, Pierce Arrow, Corn Products and Famous Players. Sears Roebuck sold at a new low, receding almost four points within a few minutes after the opening. Specialties were more active than issues which used to be called standard. Atlantic Gulf was one of the strongest stocks and among others said to be so designated were General Asphalt and Bosch Magneto. Motors continued to lead the advance. Studebaker opened with the sale of 2,600 shares at from 74¾ to 74, At the first quotation it was up 1¾. It showed nearly five points gain before midmorning. Rails were steady and oils had a better tone. Steels were quiet, but advanced.

U. S. STEEL ANNUAL REPORT.

U. S. Steel had a narrow movement and did not indicate whether its annual report was up to expectations or a disappointment. It certainly caused no surprise. It showed for 1920 gross receipts of $1,755,477,023, compared with $1,448,537,535 in 1919. The balance for the common stock amounted to $84,474,551, equal to 16.62 per cent. on the $508,302,500 outstanding, compared with $51,574,805, or 10.15 per cent. in 1919. The profit and loss surplus at the end of the year was $488,-484,891, against $468,068,702 in 1919.

Judge Gary reports to stockholders that the output for the entire year, measured by the tonnage of finished products for sale, averaged 83.3 per cent. of total rated capacity. During the four months from April to July, the output equalled only about 50 per cent of capacity.

BOSTON FOREIGN TRADE INCREASED LAST MONTH

The foreign trade of Boston increased in February 25 per cent. over January total, commerce in and out of this port representing $16,-395,273 against $21,494,516 for the preceding month. But in February, 1920, the foreign trade of Boston aggregated $57,673,937. Wool receipts contributed largely to the February, 1921, showing, aggregating 47,753,-621 pounds as compared with 19,-795,483 for the corresponding month of last year. Sugar receipts will figure largely in this month's receipts, as five cargoes amounting to 38,984,000 pounds in all are now en route for Boston.

Exports from Boston have been small of late. For February they amounted to $4,794,616, as compared with $9,218,886 for January.

Rail Oil Consumption

During 1920 the railroads of this country consumed approximately 41,-700,000 barrels of fuel oil, as compared with 19,900,000 barrels in 1919. About half of the total was used by roads in the Central Western territory, the Southern Pacific, Atchison, Burlington and Western Pacific. California supplied the greater part of the fuel consumed by American roads and some of that used by Canadian roads.

Income Tax Receipts

Receipts from income and profit taxation by the U. S. Treasury up to March 17 amounted to $466,512,358, it is reported from Washington.

Wall Street Briefs

The steamship Adriatic has aboard $1,250,-000 in gold which is consigned from London to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Treasuries of the American Hide & Leather Company and subsidiaries are full to capacity and it has reduced wages about 20 per cent.

Dillon, Read & Co. announce the sale of the issue of $1,250,000 Municipal Gas Co. of Albany, N. Y., 5½ per cent. notes, due 1926.

Rock Island gross increased $1,961,503 in January from corresponding month last year to $7,561,513, a decrease of $2,699,818.

Net operating income of Kansas City Southern Railway for January increased $1,570,540 in gross and of $2,596,647 in net.

For the second week in March the Colorado Southern reports gross increased $1,849 while from January 1 there was a decrease of $210,106.

Southern Railway gross increased $9,780 in the second week of March, but since January 1 there was a decrease of $5,227,903.

Mobile & Ohio's gross increased $40,449 in the second March week and since January 1 it reports a sale of $527,501.

BETTER TONE TO THE BOSTON MARKET

Opens Mixed, but Soon Shows Improvement; Curb Active and Irregular

About half of the stocks to come out at the opening of the Boston market were unchanged and the remainder were about equally split between gains and losses. The list showed improvement during the first hour, however. Trading was as quiet as during the session of the day before. It excited no interest and generally speaking the local public does not appear to be following the market closely at present. Coppers continued heavy, but there was a better tone in regard to price issues. It is hoped that the labor disputes involving them will result in amicable settlement. Business in wool was the light to demonstrate anything. One or two point gains were made within an hour by Island Creek, United Fruit, American Sugar preferred and General Electric. Island Creek was the strongest. Calumet & Arizona and Wolverine lost a point. Regarding the copper situation it is said that producers could market more metal, if they would sell for 13 cents a pound. More curtailment or closing of mines is looked for.

Practically gains were achieved by New Haven, United Shoe, American Sugar, New England Telephone, Gurney Hill, Simms Magneto, Loew's Inc., Greiner Motor, Swift & Davis, Swift & Co. and Swift International. Among losses in recede a little were Copper Range, East Butte, Mohawk, Venture, West End and Utah Metal.

CURB MOVEMENT MIXED.

The Curb had an irregular start, but was rather active at the outset. It was led at the start by Boston & Montana, Eureka and Texana. Trading in most other issues was on a limited scale. Stocks to advance at once included Alpha, Heela Divide, Sierra Silver and United Verde Extension. Among those to recede on first sales were Bagdad, Eureka, Manhattan and Verde Minos.

At the end of an hour Eureka was up 5 cents at 72 cents and Texana a half a cent at 6 cents. Daddy and Manhattan had recovered losses and United Verde Extension had lost its gain. Boston & Montana was unchanged at 64 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

The first National Corporation will reduce its capitalization from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000 by the retirement of $500,000 and the retirement of 5,000 shares common stock, leaving 10,000 shares of common.

Suspension of mining until the copper market improves will save Nevada Utah $50,000 a month, according to the estimate of its directorate. Development work will be continued.

For the 1920 the Pond Creek Coal Co. reports net profits of $660,810, equal to $1.32 a share on the 500,000 shares of stock, against $1,-407,660 on 500,000 shares earned in 1919, and $317,-869, or $2.12 a share in 1918.

Quarterly Trust dividends on stocks commerce on the proposed increase of the company's capital stock from $750,000 to $750,000.

The Island Creek Coal Co. reports for last year net profits, after tax reserves, of $2,-660,000, an increase of $1,260,171 as compared with 1919. After preferred dividends, the balance was equal to $4.43 a share as compared with $3.15 a share and $2 a share in 1917.

$18,000,000 DEFICIT IN INCOME TAX RECEIPTS

From February first to the present the deposits made by the Internal Revenue Bureau from income taxes paid have reached a total of $38,587,-928, against a total last year for the same period, of $56,217,701. This leaves a deficit of about eighteen millions, or 40 per cent.

There are, however more returns made this year than last; more than 400,000 this year as compared to less than 238,000 in 1920. There are still several hundred returns that have not been tabulated as yet by the department, but these are not expected to reduce the deficit appreciably.

Tobacco Trade Expanding

There has been an expansion of tobacco consumption this year, although the cigar trade has failed to improve as much as other lines. Toward the close of last year business depression was felt by tobacco interests, but for all that the net earnings of twelve principal manufacturing and refining companies reached the high record aggregate of $82,354,734 in 1920. This contrasted with $56,887,745 for 1919, $56,667,258 for 1918 and $49,235,182 for 1917.

More Sea Trade for Boston

More sea trade for Boston is expected this summer as a direct service has been inaugurated between here and Mediterranean ports by the United States Mail Steamship Company, while the Furness-Warren line is to resume passenger and freight service between Boston and Liverpool on April 28 and will call at St. John and Halifax on both east and westbound trips.

Shoe Trade Still Dull

While there is more demand at Easter for fancy shoes made of fine leathers, the industry in general is reported as still dull. The calf leather market is not reflecting any increased demand for footwear. The hide market, in fact, is so narrow that any buying on a big scale would cause an immediate rise, as tanners-Consumers are carrying very small stocks.

Chain Stores Doing Well

The five and ten-cent chain stores are not making as large gains in gross as at a corresponding date last year, but for the first two months all the leading companies in the chain report business increase. The combined total for the Woolworth, Kresge, Penney, McCrory and Kinney companies for January and February, 1921, was $35,168,421, as compared with $30,753,605 for the like 1920 period.

Copper Market Steady

The most that can be said about the copper market is that it is steady. Nearby metal can be bought at several dealers at 12 cents although the larger agencies are quoting from 12½ to 13 cents a pound. They are holding firmly for the latter figure on future shipments.

Town and City Loans

Beverly Mass., will receive bids until 8 p. m. Thursday, March 24, for the purchase of $25,000 water bonds, dated April 1, 1921, due $5,000 from 1922 to 1926 inclusive, and $5,000 from 1927 to 1936 inclusive.

Hingham, Mass., has sold to Harris, Forbes & Co. $50,000 4½ per cent. permanent improvement loan of $72,000, of which $23,000 matured March 1, and $50,000 March 15, 1921.

Bangor, Me., has sold to the Eastern Trust & Banking Co., Bangor, a 5½ per cent. discount, a temporary loan of $200,000.

New York Curb Market

New York, March 23.—The Curb market was extremely irregular but generally steady through the forenoon. Stutz Motor moved 2½ points upward during a rise to 104. Goodyear Tire & Rubber was off 1¼ to 11.

JACK JOHNSON SEEKS HIS FREEDOM

Former Heavyweight Champion Is Tired of Dull Gray Walls of Leavenworth Prison

Chicago, March 23.—Jack Johnson, former world's champion heavyweight pugilist, is chafing under the restrictions of Leavenworth prison, where he is spending a year on a charge of violating the Mann act, and is disheartened, called on his friends to use their "pull" to have his term shortened.

The pugilist, it is intimated, will be put up to Charles F. Clyne, district attorney, with a view of recommending his release before July, when his term will expire.

One reason the fighter is tired of prison where he is serving as athletic director, is that he has been offered $1,000 a week in vaudeville, it is reported.

Jack thinks he should get credit for the two months he served in the county jail before going to Leavenworth after he surrendered on the Mexican border, when he got tired of his five-year exile in Europe and Mexico.

He was sentenced for transporting Martha Schreiber, a white woman, from Pittsburgh to Chicago.

Brown Varsity Nine Beats Scrubs, 6-0

Providence, March 23.— The seven-inning game between the Brown varsity and the Scrubs resulted in a 6 to 0 win for the regulars. Captain Knight held the Scrubs to two hits.

The practice was a costly one, as two veterans were injured. Standish, centre fielder, pulled a tendon in his left shoulder, and Leddy, a pitcher, sprained his ankle sliding into a base.

JACK BRITTON AND YOUNG KLOBY TO BATTLE IN NEW YORK

RICKARD IS TO STAGE TUSSLE

Welterweight Champion Will Get Large Purse and Almost Certain Victory

By JACK CONWAY.

Boston and New England boxing fans have received an Easter gift. 'Tis not a star match, as might be expected. Instead, it is the glad tidings from Lawrence that when Jack Britton, world's welterweight champion, and Young Kloby meet it will be in a New York ring.

The fans very naturally have a warm place in their hearts for Britton, as he is one of the most brilliant welterweights that ever entered a ring. Likewise Kloby has plenty of admirers, as he risked his all in the Great Adventure while a member of the Y. D., and then returned home and flattened a lot of perfectly good lightweights and a few welterweights.

There has not been any demand for a Britton-Kloby bout in this sector of the land of the brave, however, as the fans realized that the N. B. A. champion wouldn't have a chance of victory if pitted against Britton. And there isn't a lot of fun watching a magic ring man like Britton hit a strong, game fellow like Kloby with about everything but the proverbial bucket.

Jack P. Flynn, Tex Rickard's right eye in the matchmaking line, has made two trips to Lawrence to talk things over with Kloby. The latter, even when opposed by star men, always managed to make the promoters come to him. Tommy has probably asked for a couple of blocks on Fifth avenue and maybe a part of Central Park, but in due time he will come to terms with Flynn and then journey over to New York to battle Britton.

The match will probably be staged in the open air. There will not be a big-time show at Madison Square Garden during the next six weeks, and by the time this playhouse is available for ring contests once more the outdoor shows have the call.

Of course, Britton will get a bundle of money and a victory out of the bout. As for Kloby, he'll get a flock of perfectly good currency, which, added to the $18,000 he has earned in the ring since returning from France, will enable him to enjoy the Summer months as a man of affairs should.

B. U. TRACK MEN TO WORK ON CHARLESBANK

The B. U. track team will start to use the Charlesbank track as soon as the Easter vacation comes to a close. Twenty-eight men are practicing indoors, and Ayres expects to have as many more candidates when he calls them out after vacation.

SHOE TRADES IN REVENGE GAME TONIGHT

Cobblers Out to Erase Stigma of 4 to 3 Defeat by Hamilton Tigers

THE ARENA LINEUP

Hamilton Tigers.	Shoe Trades.

Reid, c.	c., Gerun
Gregory, rw.	rw., Conley
Shea, r. p....	c.p., Skilton, Healy
A. Smith, p....	p., Small
Beaume, g.	g., Storey

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Rambling Raymie Skilton is expected to lead his shoe Trades team against the Hamilton Tigers at the Arena tonight, when the former attempts to revenge itself for the 4 to 3 trouncing administered by the Hamilton boys when the teams clashed in the first game of their current series.

Raymie will find he is up against a real team, if he does play tonight, for the Hamilton Tigers, proved at once the speediest and ruggedest array to visit this section, and the excellent impression made by the Shoe Trades against the weak opposition furnished by the Shamrocks, was given a less attractive twist when it was confronted by the Tigers from Hamilton. They tied George Dufresne in a double-cow knot; made Pep Conley appear slow, and only the most brilliant efforts of Irving Small and Jerry Geran brought the Shoe Trades their three points, one of which came while the Hamiltons were weakened through a penalty.

Skilton's absence from the initial Hamilton Tiger contest was due to his visit to Pittsburgh to renew his protest on a league game with the B. A. A. one month ago, and according to a wire from Skilton's manager President Haddock of the United States Hockey Association has sustained or will sustain the protest, and if such proves the case the league season, and the recent B. A. A.-Cleveland series will have been all for naught.

The game in question was the one in which the now celebrated Dufresne controversy developed. Prior to the game Skilton was notified that Dufresne was ineligible to play. The Shoe Trades took the ice without him and lost the game whereupon Raymie promptly entered a protest on the debarment of his Canadian star.

CYCLONE BURNS IS READY FOR GARDINI

Veteran Heavyweight Wrestler Has Been Training Quietly for Past Six Weeks

Cyclone Burns has not been caught napping in the matter of training for his coming match with Jimmy Gardini for the latest recognized heavyweight wrestling championship. He has been at work quietly for the past six weeks going through a strenuous course of preparation in anticipation of the match eventually being made. As a result Burns is today in as good shape as ever in his life and seems given up all school work in order to devote to rounding into a supple form he will step on the mat in Mechanics Building next Wednesday night ready to give the Italian a battle he will remember as long as he lives.

"Gardini is banking on his youth to carry him through" said Burns today. "Well, so did Booker when I went against Stanley Ketchel but the Pole, twelve years older than Joe, came home a winner and I don't think that there was no doubt about the result I feel the same way in the coming match."

ALBANY BILL AIMED AT ORAL BETTING

Albany, March 23.—A bill designed to put an end to the present form of making wagers on horse racing was introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Nicholas M. Pette, Republican of Queens.

Assemblyman Pette explained that the measure was intended to overcome the system of oral betting in vogue at tracks in the State. The bill would provide that a person "shall be guilty of bookmaking without writing if he shall enter or make directly with the public bets or wagers, or accepts the same, or shall on the same occasion, event or contest make bets or wagers accompanied with the delivery of the money so bet or wagered."

YOUNG MONTREAL TO BATTLE CHAMPION

Cleveland, March 23.—Young Montreal has been matched to box Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, in a ten-round, no-decision bout here on April 4.

"For Love"

An Absorbing Romance By Ruby M. Ayres

Eva Reassured by Her Father as to Philip's Financial Status

What Has Gone Before

Philip Winterdick, twenty-eight and carefree, the son of rich, blue-blooded parents, loves Kitty Arlington, fluffy and dimpled. She is of "good family," but in restricted circumstances. She is eager enough to marry Philip when he proposes. But his dream of happiness is short-lived, for his father tells him the whole family fortune has been jeopardized in a stock deal. Further, he tells Philip that he has arranged with Dennison, a rich neighbor of "no family," for financial aid under the condition that Philip marry Eva Dennison, to satisfy the elder Dennison's ambition to get his daughter a social station. Kitty rejects Philip because of his poverty. He proposes to Eva, who secretly loves him, and is accepted.

EVAS eyes went straight to Philip's with a little questioning glance. Mr. Dennison put his arm around her.

"He's told me, you sly little puss," he said. He gave her a squeeze. "I never was so surprised. How dare you steal a march on your father like this? But, never mind, I forgive you. Give me a kiss, and then I suppose our two will want a word together, eh? That, too—I was young myself once." He raised his glass.

"To my daughter—and her future husband," he said, and drained the contents.

Philip looked at Eva. Her face was a little tremulous. With an effort he smiled at her.

"To my future wife," he said huskily "and to—our happiness."

When the door had closed behind him, Eva looked at Philip Winterdick.

"And what did father say when you told him?" she asked shyly. "Was he very surprised?"

"No. I—I don't know—he didn't say much. I think he was pleased, though."

He felt the veriest hypocrite.

"Eva, I am sure he would be pleased," she said. A gleam of fun lit her grey eyes. "Philip, what will our friends say? All our friends?"

"I don't mind—if you don't," he said.

His fingers closed about hers.

"Tony's a thousand times too good for me—if you only knew it," he said. He bent his head and kissed her very gently, cursing himself because he was so tongue-tied and awkward. But Eva did not notice anything; she was too happy to be critical.

There was something of almost worshipful tenderness in her eyes as they met his hang-up wedding.

"I will be good to you—I swear I will," he said with sudden emotion

Eva Is In Doubt

The town took the news of its most eligible's engagement well.

So far no news of the Winterdick's financial losses had leaked out, so the probability of Philip having covered the Dennisons money never occurred to anyone, and Kitty Arlington kept her own counsel

When she heard the news of his engagement to Eva she was at first incredulous and then scornful.

It was so obvious why he had done it, she thought bitterly, out of pique, and, secondly, for money.

She rather took it as a compliment to herself; when she met Peter again she questioned him about it very tactfully.

Wasn't he surprised when he heard! Peter was bound to admit that he had been; he added that he had never imagined for a moment that Winterdick had been serious in his attentions to Eva. Then, struck perhaps by something in Kitty's face, he added loyally that, of course, he wasn't really a bit surprised. Any fellow with eyes in his head would see at once what a topping fine girl she was.

The Dennisons were nobodies, of course, but the fact that Philip Winterdick was marrying Eva raised their status considerably.

Mrs. Dennison was elated over her daughter's engagement.

"My dear, how did you manage it?" she asked, amazed, momentarily deserting her fancy work to look at the girl.

Eva laughed. She understood her mother too well to be annoyed.

"I don't think I managed it at all," she said, happily. "It just came along."

Eva stood twisting her ring absently. She was wearing one of Philip's for the present.

"I'll take you to town to choose one soon," he said. "Will you wear it—all the morning?"

"I'd much rather have yours," she told him.

Saw Little of Him

She had seen him very little since the night he had asked her to marry him, and when they met there was generally somebody else present.

She did not guess that Philip tried to arrange it so. She never suspected what an unhappy man he was in these days.

The only one who was getting whole-hearted enjoyment out of the engagement seemed to be Mr. Dennison. He fancied himself exceedingly as future father-in-law to Philip Winterdick. He assured everybody that the engagement was the outcome of love at first sight.

His rather thought he would like to take his son-in-law to the little town where he had made his money; just to show his one-time cronies the height of fame to which he had risen. Without telling anyone, he had a paragraph inserted in the local paper of his old home, in which great stress had been laid on the blue-bloodness of the Winterdicks. He had kept a cutting of it in his pocket-case, and chuckled over it half a dozen times a day.

"I'm going to do the right thing in style when you're married, my dear," he told Eva. "Nobody shall say that I didn't give my only daughter a hang-up wedding."

Eva laughed

We shan't be married for ages," she said "Father, you don't know—of course, Philip told you about—about the money"

Mr. Dennison laughed.

"Pooh! that's nothing—I know all about it—Philip told me."

"Of course, I knew he would do that"

Yes—of course" Quite right of him—quite right But it's nothing serious. In fact, as Winterdick was telling me only last night that they would manage to pull round. Things happen like that where there are large sums of money in question, you know

Patted Her Shoulder

"There's nothing for you to worry about, my dear, I tell you, nothing" He patted her shoulder "And I shouldn't talk about it if I were you. The Winterdicks are rather sensitive. Don't tell anyone, my dear—people are so willing to exaggerate."

"I should never think of telling anyone."

"Humph! Well, there nothing to tell now, as it happens. You'll be comfortable enough when you're married. Trust me to see to that."

She rather took it as a compliment to herself; when she met Peter again she questioned him about it very tactfully.

Wasn't he surprised when he heard! Peter was bound to admit that he had been; he added that he had never imagined for a moment that Winterdick had been serious in his attentions to Eva. Then, struck perhaps by something in Kitty's face, he added loyally that, of course, he wasn't really a bit surprised. Any fellow with eyes in his head would see at once what a topping fine girl she was.

The Dennisons were nobodies, of course, but the fact that Philip Winterdick was marrying Eva raised their status considerably.

Mrs. Dennison was elated over her daughter's engagement.

"My dear, how did you manage it?" she asked, amazed, momentarily deserting her fancy work to look at the girl.

Eva laughed. She understood her mother too well to be annoyed.

"I don't think I managed it at all," she said, happily. "It just came along."

Eva stood twisting her ring absently. She was wearing one of Philip's for the present.

"I'll take you to town to choose one soon," he said. "Will you wear mine—all the morning?"

"I'd much rather have yours," she told him.

When Memory Makes the Past Into the Present

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1921, by International Feature Service, Inc.

IN the twilight hours she sits in her comfortable chair, calm in the assurance of a life well lived, and thinks back upon the years that have flown. And she sees visions she dreams of days when the sun was high and the earth was fresh with the morning dew and nature sang with her million throats a song of love and gladness and welcome. That song ever for the young she heard then with heart that understood, and she has never forgotten. No one who really hears and understands ever does forget and now like an incense the memory comes back and unfolds and takes the shape of those many years back and makes her wish, oh, for a tiny moment, that she might be young again in the days when steps were light and love was in the air.

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle.

"ARRIVING 10.35 tomorrow morning Meet me station if possible. Inform Anne. Andrew Hyland."

This was the telegram Pat read me over the telephone, and heard upon it come this comment:

'A funny way for him to be signing a wire to his boy, I'd call that. But some folks think a homey word like 'father' is too intimate sounding for a telegram. Wait a minute, Anne, some other folks don't know what it means than to interrupt a telephone conversation—meaning Tony Norreys in this instance What's that, Tony?"

During the indistinct buss of conversation which followed I slipped my hand over the transmitter and turned to Jeanie.

"Pat's just read me a message Father Andrew sent to Neal which Neal missed by going off on a trip for some allied interests consisting of Pat and himself as well as Tony and Tom. That accounts for Tony's engagement tonight. I'll have to go to town early to meet father when the 10:35 gets in"——

"Yes, Pat," I said, breaking off to give Pat my attention.

"Tony says he's going to send Lyons down for you early tomorrow morning. He'll be there around half-past eight, so you'll have plenty of time to drive to town to greet your father."

"Oh, he mustn't" I protested "I can't accept so much"——

Following Neal

"You don't know the half of it, dearie," parodied Neal, mimicking "Tony's following Neal on this business quest of ours. He starts in a couple of days, and he says that both Lyons and the cars will need exercise, so he's making over to you and Jeanie all he rights and titles in his chauffeur and liveried steeds Now, what do you say to that?"

"It's too much!" I repeated in a sort of daze. "I can't accept all that."

"You can't indeed, alanna!" laughed Pat. "But I can and do accept without even getting permission from my Jeanie. Put her on the wire, now, will you, Pat, guest? This is the first time we've been separated. Oh, put her on the wire, there's a dear, I feel lonesome"

I smiled wistfully as I complied with Pat's request. He and Virginia are over their honeymoon, but mine is just beginning. It stretches ahead drearily, a grim road I have to travel—separation from my Jim, uncertainty as to his fortunes, the ugly situation that seems looming up before Neal.

So it was not only delicacy, but unwillingness on my own account, to hear their happy talk, which impelled me to hurry from the room. I didn't want to go upstairs, leaving Virginia alone, so I roamed down the back hall toward an inviting area of fresh air which swirled through the open window. Voices floated in, but I stood there idly.

As I got to the side entrance the door opened and Hedwig hurried into the hall. She gave me one startled glance, then stammered out a quavering greeting and stood with eyes downcast, waiting for some word from me. But I was so intent on my own problems that I gave her only a friendly good-night and then hurried back to Virginia.

Jeanie Arrives

As I got to the door I found Jeanie coming toward me

"I was just going to call you, Anne," she said. "Tony wants to speak to you. I'll trot around to make sure everything on this floor is locked, but I won't go upstairs without you."

"I won't desert you, either," I promised.

Then I went to the telephone, wondering what Tony had to say to me.

"Anne it's a shame that we've shipped that young brother off on a trip just when his dad's coming back," he began, adding, as if it were the most unusual thing in the world for a man of his interests and affairs to drop them like this, "but of course now I'll chase on after him and as soon as he's able to hand the reins over to me I'll ship him back again"

CHAPTER XXII.—Continued

A MOMENT later, though, he turned on O'Bell. The mayor was growing sleepy and didn't matter.

"Probably I ought to be afraid of you," he said, "but I don't seem to be. Do you like me, I wonder? I don't care. Of course, you can have one of the mayor's friends hit me over the head. Do it tonight, if you like. I'm going direct to the Cantoy from here. A little later I'll be walking from there to my boarding-house. Fairly early, too, as I imagine my room'll have to be put to rights after your friend's visit."

He walked out. O'Bell sprang up; but Quaiters waved him aside, said, "Oh, let him go."

Amme exposed himself then. Amme was not the sort of man who had rough contacts with life. He had been spared a good deal. He was plainly disturbed now; a little shocked. Quaiters indulged in a smile over him.

O'Bell helped the mayor home Quaiters walked out with them as far as the mail box on the corner.

He put off the deeply angry O'Bell with a quiet, "We'll have to pay him a little. That book isn't published yet. It isn't even written. There's time enough."

Muttered Aloud

Calversly, as he hurried up the Hill, believed that he was thinking about the biography. So intent was he on thinking about it that he muttered aloud The excitement that was steadily, irresistibly rising within him he couldn't explain then. He had no outside eye on it. He knew, yet didn't know, that he was being swept along, more and more swiftly, to his emotional Niagara

He entered, all confusion, brushed past the door man with the slightly raised eyebrows: ran lightly, quickly, up the stairs

The study door was closed. He paused before it. His breath was quite gone; his heart was beating uncomfortably high

The book! They must talk about that"

She said she would be in the study. But how had she managed that?

There was a rustle in the hall He started; turned; saw a woman just disappearing through a doorway. The nurse, doubtless! Mirrors trouble her.

With an all but overpowering sensation of taking an irrevocable step, crossing a rubicon—fighting down a wild impulse to run away, get his head clear, think it out—he opened the door, stepped in and closed it softly behind him.

There was Miriam, a flimy white heap, on the floor by the desk, leaning wanly against it

He sprang forward, saying something—he never knew what—and tenderly lifted her in his arms.

He placed her in the big chair between the safe and the desk. Her hands were clinging to his sleeve. His mind was a whirl of pure feeling

"You fell!" he was murmuring "That was nothing But you were so long!"

"I hurried"

"I know. But I wanted you so to come"

"You wonderful girl!"

"Oh, no! Weak, pitiful! But I'm beginning"

"You are tired, sweet," he whispered. "I am going to let her take you to bed."

And standing beside the woman of his heart he said: "Miss Russell, we can trust your discretion for the present An announcement will be made later For Miss Cantey promised to be my wife

CHAPTER XXIII

OSWALD QUALTERS came down the elevator, late on the following afternoon, paused at the sidewalk entrance to light a cigarette, glanced up the street, and beheld a trim young woman approaching from the direction of the News building She wore a straight blue coat with side pockets, many turnover collar and four-in-hand tie, felt hat pulled down over an almost boylike face The sight of her mildly pleased him; for him many another man about town (the trite phrase described Qualters in his lighter phase of this period) he had an eye for a slim figure. Also it started his quick brain.

He greeted her; walked along with her

"You don't run in any more and see the questions, said he, lightly

"I'm doing features and drammer now

"What's so I think I've seen some of your things You're signing them"

"Oh, yes' Getting to have quite a name"

"Tell me—was there a fellow named Stafford worked there on the News for a while?"

"Sot long. They didn't like him He wrote well."

"Hm! Curious thing. Friends of mine a little excited over him. He'd been put in to write the Cantey biography—"

"Yes. I'd heard that"

"And they've got an idea that he's sailing under a false name. Know anything about it"

"Not a thing"

"Him! It would be rather a mistake, of course, to turn the wrong man loose among Mr. Cantey's letters and things"

"I should think so. This is my corner"

Qualters lingered a moment to look after her. Anywhere but here in his home city he would have considered talking her out to dinner. "Sempy little thing!" he mused. But since it was the home city he strolled over to his new house

Walked Around Block

Margie Iwo walked briskly around the block She was strolling toward the News building, a little later, when the plump person of Abel H. Timothy appeared—his uncle. Abel hat tipped back on his large head, an unlighted cigar in a corner of his wide mouth. He had avoided him lately. But she had heard him about the office, talking and laughing more loudly than ever, making a show of cheery independence For her ears, of course. She studied him now with a feeling of quick nervous excitement, wondering how she could ever have fancied him; he looked so fat—she noted the deep wrinkles in his head that pulled across his middle, and the spots on the blue cloth And he always would wear a flaming red tie He saw her now; he was holding his head high, but the cigar shifted suddenly to the other corner of his mouth and back, a little trick of his when he was surprised or nervous

"Never was so rushed in my life," she remarked This seemed to cover in some measure her avoidance of him "There was, as well, a confessional impulse in it which she brushed over, particularly as she sensed deepening resentment, rising self-pity in him. Those nervous muscles about his mouth were shifting the cigar back and forth, back and forth Then he removed it and pressed his upper lip up almost against his fat nose

"Just met Oswald Qualters, Funny thing. He asked me if I knew Hugh Stafford's real name"

Cascarets

Take one of two Cascarets occasionally to keep your liver and bowels active. When bilious, constipated, headachy, unstrung or for a cold, upset stomach, or bad breath, nothing acts so nicely as Cascarets. Children love them too. 10, 25, 50 cents.

"DANDERINE"

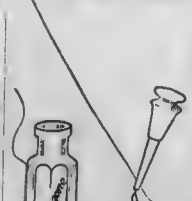
Girls! Save Your Hair! Make It Abundant!

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, lustre and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful, because each hair seems to fluff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong beautiful hair.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair This stimulating "beauty-tonic" gives to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness.—All druggists.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the callouses, without soreness or irritation.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look years younger! Use Grandmother's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur and nobody will know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound, you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known, down-town druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

How to Keep Your Skin Firm and Prevent Wrinkles

The cream that lubricates and keeps the tissues firm is the one that prevents wrinkles. Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream contains just the necessary oils and ingredients to nourish and soothe a dry, tender or inflamed skin.

As an astringent for enlarged pores and a preventative for blackheads caused from dirt accumulation, this pure antiseptic cream is ideal.

Black and White Peroxide Cream prevents chapping of the hands or face; and when used as a foundation for face powder or rouge forms an invisible film that retains the make-up without a "showy" appearance.

All leading drug and department stores sell and guarantee Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream, as also Black and White Soap, Ointment, Theatrical Cream, Dental Cream, etc., or a full-sized jar will be sent prepaid upon receipt of 25c.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

"This professional jealousy is terrible!" exclaimed Charles Kenyon, the playwright, when Irene Rich, Goldwyn's leading lady, refused to let him get into the picture.

By FRIEDA DAVIS

THOUGH "The Parish Priest" is the feature picture at the Park Theatre this week, Universal's offering, "The Fire Cat," starring Edith Roberts, is a better film in every way, with a stronger story, cast of players and theme.

A year ago, or possibly it was two years ago, Edith Roberts was playing ingenue roles for Universal. Today, with the help of such splendid stories as "The Fire Cat," she is holding her own among the rest of the stars. Starting as a comedienne in Christie comedies, she has developed into rather serious work, but has kept the lightness and vivacity that comedy work teaches.

Dulce Alvarez, the last of a long line of Spanish noblemen, lives in the Andes with her mother. She has been brought up there in the mountains where she leads an out-doors life, riding, hunting and shooting. One day as she goes off to hunt, she gives Pancho, the half-breed, instructions to care for her mother. An outlaw, "Gringo" Burke, and his South American followers come to rob and, in order to get her gold necklace, murder Dulce's mother. Pancho, at heart a coward, fails to save her.

When Dulce learns of it she goes to Purisima, "the wicked city," to avenge her mother's death. There she becomes a dancer in the Fonda, one of the lowest dives of the city, where she is known as the "fire cat." She meets and helps an American, David Rose, finds "Gringo," but is held back from murdering him. Meanwhile the volcano nearby starts an eruption and the people start to leave the city. Dulce goes to the mine to save Ross, and "Gringo" and his men follow to loot the mine. Here it is that Pancho redeems himself, saves Dulce and Ross, and dies a hero's death after killing "Gringo."

GORGEOUS SCENERY

The scenery in this picture is quite the most colorful and gorgeous we have seen. The mountain settings are striking, the Purisima scenes are quaint and colorful giving the darkness and Spanish atmosphere, while the eruption of the volcano is given with vividness and impressiveness.

Spanish stories lend themselves to the screen well, in spite of the loss of color we always associate with such surroundings. The characteristics of the people, fiery tempers, vivacity, and at times, indolence. Universal has cast the picture well. Edith Roberts makes a striking Spanish girl, and plays with spirit.

STRONG CAST OF PLAYERS.

It was unfortunate that Beatrice Domingues died as she was making such a success of her motion picture work. In "The Fire Cat" she was splendid as the jealous Parisian girl. Her strength of characterization and her colorful personality were particularly good in such roles as this.

Wallace MacDonald as David Rose was very good in a rather negligible part, and Walter Long, who won fame when he chased Mae March over the cliff in "The Birth of a Nation, is bloodthirsty, and ruthless as he villain." The man who played the role of Pancho—his name was flashed on so quickly we didn't get it—gave an uncommonly good portrayal. It was subtle and picturesque but not overdrawn.

THEY START TO ROAM.

IN THE SPRING the movie stars' fancy lightly turns to thoughts of Europe. Last year at this time making plans to sail, or hurrying work on their pictures that they might have time for a trip over.

This season's exodus has begun. Pearl White, as we said the other day, will sail early in May. Wyndham Standing is already over there visiting friends and relatives in England, and now we hear that Mr. and Mrs. William Farnum left yesterday for a holiday in England, Ireland, Scotland, Italy and France.

Those trips are not always in the nature of a vacation. The stars and directors are always on the lookout for new material and original ideas for their pictures.

OLD SUCCESS FILMED

IN CALIFORNIA a production company is starting work on the filming of "Rip Van Winkle." Washington Irving's story which Joseph Jefferson made so popular on the stage. The scenario has been written to follow the original play closely and will be played by Thomas Jefferson, a son of Joseph Jefferson.

NOW WHO'S LAUGHING?

IN THE DAYS when it cost but a dime to get into a movie theatre, a few far-seeing souls prophesied the day when we would pay the regular theatre prices—that is, the theatre price of those days, 25—to see a film.

What happened? Everyone laughed, and these far-seeing souls sat back and wagged their heads solemnly.

When, last year, an ambitious producer put on a film at theatre prices, it was regarded as more or less of a publicity stunt, but the public paid it to get in, and even then felt that they weren't cheated.

Today such films as "Way Down East," "Passion," "Kismet," "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "Over the Hills," "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," and Griffith's next feature, "Dream Street," are all booked at leading theatres at $2. Owners of the legitimate theatres are booking pictures right and left instead of the spoken plays, because the public is supporting the higher priced films so enthusiastically. Now who's laughing?

CAMERA CLICKS.

LOUISE HUFF is considering several offers to go on the legitimate stage this season. Although she has been playing in pictures for some time, the lure of the footlights became strong when she played with Wallace Reid in the Community Theatre in Hollywood a short time ago.

MARGERY DAW is popularly believed to have been given that name by Geraldine Farrar, who is said to have taken a fancy to her while she was playing in California, but the truth of the matter is that Miss Daw has only met the singer twice in her life.

REGINALD BARKER is the only director in the business who never uses a megaphone when he's working. What he does when the players are some distance away isn't explained, but it's said that he doesn't shout.

HELENE CHADWICK is the latest movie star on the West coast to bob her hair.

"LEFTY" FLYNN, who is appearing in Goldwyn pictures, is the same "Lefty" Flynn who used to be the football hero at Yale.

TOM MOORE and his bride, Renee Adoree, returned from Honolulu last week and Moore will start work on his next picture, "Beating the Game," tomorrow.

FEAST OF PURIM BEGINS AT SUNSET TONIGHT

Purim or the Feast of Esther will be celebrated by over 100,000 Jews of Greater Boston beginning at sunset tonight and continuing until Thursday evening. The "Megillah," or Book of Esther, will be read in synagogues, and at the mention of the name "Haman," the congregations will stamp their feet, knock with their hands or use a "hamantaschen," a special noise-rattling toy. This is done as a protest against the intendent vilification and injustice of Haman. A special cake called "Hamantaschen," will be eaten tomorrow at every Jewish home and a part of the celebration will be the "Shalach Manoth," or exchange of foods between families.

Appearances Are Deceiving

NO CHANCE OF ANYBODY TRYING TO SWAT THAT LITTLE GUY WHILE HE HAS THAT BUXOM WIFE OF HIS WITH HIM- QUITE SOME BODYGUARD, I'D TELL THE WORLD
I'LL BET SHE SWINGS A WICKED RIGHT- NO ONE DARES TO ABUSE LITTLE HUBBY FOR FEAR HE'LL GO HOME AND TELL THE WIFE ON 'EM- A GREAT LITTLE TEAM
ALL WRONG BILL- SHE'S ONE OF THOSE DAMES THAT DRAGS LITTLE HUBBY AROUND TO FINISH UP FIGHTS THAT SHE STARTS-
OSWALD, THRASH THAT MAN- HE SASSED ME THIS MORNING

CALF DOWN FOR THE COUNT—You are now getting a peep into the Mulford Laboratories, near Philadelphia, where smallpox vaccine is removed from animals to save your life. Photo shows surgeons extracting the vaccine from a calf under modern hospital conditions. The calves are killed before the vaccine is removed. Arrow points to where mixture is extracted. (Int.)

POUND AND A QUARTER OF DOG—"Snoopie" is said to be the smallest black and tan in the world. The most cruel are in Erin. "Snoopie's" owner is Mrs. Sidney A. Williams. She is wearing latest thing in hats. (Keystone.)

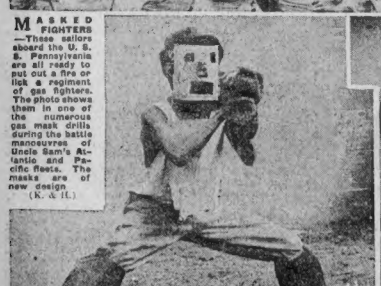
FROZEN KNOWLEDGE—This isn't the wife and child of an explorer—just pupil and teacher getting on with the lesson at 10 below zero. Miss Hazel Patterson is supervisor of the open air school at Lake Saranac. The baby bunting is Anna Rose, aged five, and she enjoys learning her A. B. C.'s in a biting temperature. (U. P.)

YOU CAN'T KEEP A GOOD CAUSE DOWN—The chief of staff barred this float from the Evacuation Day parade, but it went over the route just the same. It was sponsored by the Boston Reprisals Commission. Scored the British for their conduct of affairs in Ireland.

TODAY'S LESSON—No, dear children, it isn't a watch—not even a stop watch. Whisper it, my dears, it's a pocket race track with all the features of a regular course. They do say you can gamble with it too (K. & H.)

LET'S KISS AND MAKE UP—This little lamb didn't have a friend in the world until he was adopted by this little girl. She got peeved at lamby because the girl showed him too much attention, but everythin' is O. K. now as you can plainly see. 'Taint a Judas kiss, either. Scores of young lambs have been sent to the market early this year and many find their new surroundings a bit bewildering. (K. & H.)

HOT DOG, BOY! Beauty and the Beast are out for a spin in a new minute-a-minute motor launch and the sea is kicking up an awful fuss. We'll say the waves have an excuse for being wild, not to mention a few others. Di Mi, and did you see her new Summer furs, my dear? Taken on the coast. Nuff sed. (Keystone)

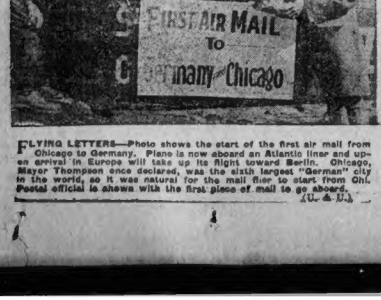


MASKED FIGHTERS—These sailors aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania are all ready to put out a fire or lick a regiment of gas fighters. The photo shows them in one of the numerous gas mask drills during the battle manoeuvres of Uncle Sam's Atlantic and Pacific fleets. The masks are of new design (K. & H.)

BOOGY MAN IS HERE—Gosh!—he nearly scared us to death, but he's only the catcher on a "pick up" nine. Pick up le right for his baseball costume consists of a cheese grate mask, a chest protector of cardboard and leg guards of oilcloth. His glove is made of a heavy cap with a piece of leather in the centre. This outfit was devised to meet the H. O. L. Put 'er over, kid! (K. & H.)

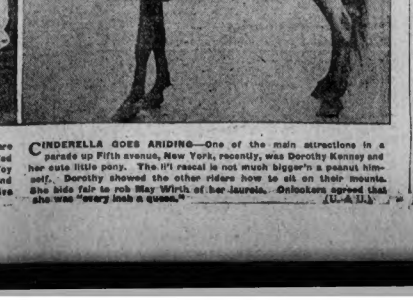
SMILE PRETTY FOR THE BIRDIE—Bet pa won't smile when he gets a bill for this outfit—without the girl, of course. It is suitable for sport and office and is made of soft crepe chenille trimmed with lace medallions. Ideal for the warm days and will give the wearer considerable service. Is effective worn with a sport skirt (Keystone.)

LA PALOMA—This young lady does not throw the bull. She is Susan Morse of Columbia University, one of the features of a charity pageant. Proceeds went to Chinese College. Pageant itself cost but $50.



FLYING LETTERS—Photo shows the start of the first air mail from Chicago to Germany. Plane is now aboard an Atlantic liner and upon arrival in Europe will take up its flight toward Berlin. Chicago, Mayor Thompson once declared, was the sixth largest "German" city in the world, so it was natural for the mail fiier to start from Chi. Postal official is shown with the first piece of mail to go aboard. (U. & I.)

HOW DO YOU LIKE OUR NEW PANTIES?—These youngsters are togged out in their silken play clothes. Most kids would be glad to have them for their "Sunday best." Left to right, a Bling Toy chambrain; organdie Dutch rompers; tomboy suit of Japanese crepe and a peniatette romper of mercerized poplin. What would those kids give to make a good old mud pie? (Keystone.)



CINDERELLA GOES ARIDING—One of the main attractions in a parade up Fifth avenue, New York, recently, was Dorothy Kenney and her cute little pony. The li'l rascal is not much bigger'n a peanut himself. Dorothy showed the other riders how to sit on their mounts. She bids fair to rob May Wirth of her laurels. Onlookers agreed that she was "every inch a queen." (U. & I.)

Rules of the Movie Play Title Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Movie Play Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the 60 pictures to be published one each day consecutively in the Daily American and Sunday Advertiser.

Readers of the Boston American, its branches, Boston Sunday Advertiser and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 60 pictures, representing the title of a Moving Picture Play, to be printed one each day in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture appearing February 27, 1921.

Participating in any other contest which has been conducted by the Boston American or may be run by the Boston Advertiser or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and no family shall be entitled to more than one award.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupons furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each set of titles.

Do not write your titles in "list" form, i. e. do not write titles under one another in a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie, awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in this way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP YOUR titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Judges will be selected for making the awards. The first titles received from the Test will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Play Title Headquarters at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., either by mail or in person within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Play Title Editor, Boston American, Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., P. O. Box 2000," and each envelope or package must bear the title and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as dead matter unless sufficient postage is affixed.

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to disqualify any contestant or any of their titles on charges for postal delinquency are not fully prepaid.

Every will be no title or answer book by boy. Lists of Movie Titles will be printed in the Boston American and in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. This list appearing will contain answers to the correct titles.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Play Title Editor, Boston American, Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., and they will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage. Write in a legible hand or they may obtain Main Editor and in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make any changes in, or additions to, these conditions that they may deem necessary for fairly and impartially conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American and the Title Editor on any question which may arise in connection with the Test, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

DETAILS OF THE MOVIE PLAY TITLE TEST, WITH NAMES OF THE CO-OPERATING THEATRES, WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 6

FOR IRISH RELIEF FUND

Manchester, N. H., March 23.—It is expected that William S. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, will come to Manchester to speak in the interests of the drive for the fund for relief in Ireland, State Chairman William F. Harrington has been notified that Mr. McAdoo is available and in arranging a date for his appearance here. The drive is progressing well all over the State. Manchester, with approximately $13,000 subscribed to date, is expected to raise a large proportion of the original quota of $35,000 fixed for the State.

76,000 TROUT TO STOCK WESTFIELD STREAMS

Westfield, March 23.—The Westfield Rod and Gun Club will receive 76,000 trout fingerlings from the federal government for distribution in streams about here. The State Department of Fish and Game will also aid in restocking work, and will give the club pheasant eggs and several birds for breeding purposes.

Why?

Pet Peeves of Patient People

WHY is it that every seat in the cars at Sullivan square are taken by men before one woman gets on?—MALDEN.

• • •

WHY is it that if you should happen to push a man on the elevated he is ready to lick you, but they all but step on a woman to get a seat?—ABUSED.

• • •

WHY is it that if a polite man is seen on a street car he is regarded as a freak?—AMAZED.

• • •

WHY is it that a man sits down in the car with his legs all sprawled out and a paper in his hands and takes up as much room as two women and a woman has to stand and be pushed around when she pays just the same as a man?—PEEVED PATRON.

• • •

WHY do people clean their houses in the spring and then remain dirty the rest of the year?—M. S.

• • •

WHY do some children go to school and never learn anything?—DUNCE.

• • •

WHY is it that nearly every person runs up a subway escalator when its purpose is to carry them? Why don't they use the stairs if they want to run?—ANDREW SQUARE.

• • •

WHY is an auctioneer so willing to sell a hundred dollars' worth of jewelry for three dollars?—I. M. WISE.

• • •

WHY is it that a woman can wear a straw hat in the middle of Winter but if a man wears one before June 15 he gets crowned?—BROWN DERBY.

• • •

WHY has Boston stood still for fifteen years?—DISTURBED.

• • •

WHY are the Boston street car men the most unchivil bunch in the world?—HUB.

• • •

WHY do nine out of every ten people you meet on the sidewalk in Boston turn to the left?—SERPENTINE.

What got your goat today? You'll feel better if you tell the Pet Peeve Editor of the Boston American about it.

"WHY" also appears every Sunday in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

McADOO WILL SPEAK

$2,193,063 TO ENFORCE DRY LAW IN N. E.

Revenue Receipts, However, for 1920 in this District Were $717,896,035

Washington, March 22.—The cost to the government last year to enforce prohibition, restrict the sale of opium, collect the war revenues and pay salaries and other expenses of collection in the New England States was $2,193,063.

This does not include the cost of maintaining the office of the prohibition agency at Boston, which was $51,248 for salaries, $64,197 for traveling expenses, and $4,483 for office expense.

The receipts from the New England States in internal revenue were $518,346,721 for the fiscal year 1920; $110,559,214 from July 1 to November 21, 1920, a total of $717,896,035 for the two periods. These receipts were from classified revenue schedules.

The unclassified collections were: From Massachusetts, $24,750,333; Connecticut, $23,495,946; New Hampshire, $190,349; Rhode Island, $31,795; Maine, $3,794; Vermont, $84.

The classified collections are divided in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, as follows: Massachusetts, $441,617,338; Connecticut, $146,194,268; Rhode Island, $63,059,543; Maine, $29,256,970; New Hampshire, $20,207,344; Vermont, $4,569,317.

It cost almost as much to enforce prohibition in Massachusetts as in all the other New England States put together but then the internal revenue receipts from Massachusetts were almost twice as great as those for all the States. Here is the schedule of enforcement cost:

States	Salaries	Travel Expense	Office Expense
Connecticut	$41,294.18	$7,041.20	$2,447.64
Maine	7,458.26	1,315.52	290.18
Massachusetts	51,248.00	64,197.00	4,483.00
New Hampshire	5,304.87	646.96	456.66
Rhode Island	7,906.00	1,442.42	1,042.00
Vermont	2,901.67	782.16	134.43

Why Do Corporations Assume Present Legislature to Be "Easy"?

What is there about the present Massachusetts Legislature which encourages the corporations, under the advice of the corporation lobbyists, to believe that they can get legislation which destroys the safeguards that have existed in Massachusetts for a generation against raids upon the money of the depositors in our savings banks and for the protection of the general public using gas and electricity?

What do the lobbyists know about the individuals who comprise the present Massachusetts House of Representatives and Senate and the gentleman who occupies the chair of the Governor that leads them to believe that they can put through schemes this year that no corporation, not even the New Haven Railroad under Morgan, ever dared even to attempt in this State before?

It is no compliment to Republican leadership in the Legislature and no compliment to Governor Cox that THIS year should be selected by intelligent lobbyists acting for intelligent interests, however selfish and corrupt, to present these bills.

Of all the bills which are now pending before the Legislature breaching the laws which protect our savings bank depositors and our users of gas and electricity, the most dangerous, the most unfair is that which would make securities issued against railroad equipment proper savings bank investments.

The railroads today are on the verge of bankruptcy. They are suffering from the dissipation of years under private management. They have reached so low a state of financial health that none of the ordinary stimulants which legislative doctors in Congress and their own personal private physicians have been able to administer to them have succeeded in putting them on their feet. With the sky the limit which they can charge for carfares and freight rates, with the abrogation of the Sherman anti-trust law in its application to the railroads, with a guaranty of dividends for six months, with government loans of hundreds of millions of dollars, and with other gratuities from the national government passed out under the infamous Esch-Cummins law, the railroads are still sick abed, and there is no hope of their being able to rise again and stand firmly on their feet while they continue under private management the playthings and the speculative objects of our big banking interests.

The more intelligent men of the country understand this situation perfectly well. You cannot talk today with a disinterested and intelligent man who will tell you the truth confidentially without learning from him that he believes and his associates believe that the railroads can no longer be operated successfully in private hands and that it is only a question of time when they must be turned over to the government. In the meantime, however, it is natural that the private managers should do everything they can to stimulate their sick elephant.

The history of the railroads, the story of their mismanagement, of the graft and chicane which has beset private management for years, is well known to the investing public. The investing public has lost hundreds of millions of dollars in railroad securities in the last few years. They now know the reason why they have lost their money, and knowing this reason, they will not now buy railroad securities except as risky investments and at prices way below the prices which these railroad securities used to bring.

It is because investors will not risk their own money to buy railroad securities that the railroads are now trying to get permission to take money of the poor and thrifty people of the State WITHOUT THEIR CONSENT, and put them in these risky enterprises. Therein lies the crime of the proposal to use savings bank depositors' money for railroad equipment.

Of course, the railroads will tell members of the Legislature that the bill does not compel the savings bank to buy these equipment securities. Those gentlemen in the Legislature who are either fools or crooks will believe it or pretend to believe it; but it should be distinctly understood that the depositors' money is not safe when the savings bank is allowed to invest in risky securities in which big banking interests are interested. Every big bank has its chain of subsidiary or allied savings banks, the trustees of whom participate in the speculative investments and underwritings of the big banks, in exchange for permitting the big banking interests to use the money of their savings bank depositors in these underwritings.

There is also an exasperating vicious circle in the whole business. Take for example the Hampden railroad scandal a few years ago. There was a railroad built to serve no adequate object, probably intended to be a place of concealment for the yellow dog funds, the political corruption funds of the New Haven Railroad. It cost per mile four times as much just to lay the rails of that little railroad than it cost to build and equip with stations, locomotives, engines, switchyards and cars the average railroad in this country. Moreover, not only was the whole thing tainted with graft, but it was tainted with illegality. Even the title of the enterprise was not clear and legal. Yet the savings bank depositors' money was put into it, and after it was in and the scandal concerning the railroad and its illegality burst out into public gaze those who were responsible for the road asked that the State should assume the obligation or that the Boston & Maine should be allowed to assume it to protect the depositors of the savings banks.

Thus you can see the vicious circle. They first jeopardize the money of the depositors in a crooked enterprise, without their consent, and then they ask that the crooked enterprise be given public support in order to save the depositors.

We return to the question which we asked in the beginning: What is there in the membership of the Massachusetts Legislature, what is there about Governor Cox that leads our railroads and gas and electric light companies to believe that they can get away with the capitalization of premiums and assets and make savings bank depositors, without their consent, finance railroad equipments?

More Truth Than Poetry

THE IDEALIST

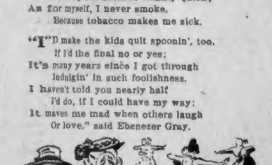
By S. E. KISER

"I WISH," said Ebenezer Gray,
"There wasn't any fun on earth;
I'll tell you, if I had my way,
I'd stop the dancin', and the mirth.
I'm old and sort of on the shelf,
It's years since I was at my best;
As long as I can't dance myself,
I'm keen for stoppin' all the rest.

"If I could have my way I'd send
Short-skirted women all to jail;
I'd make 'em cover up, my friend;
Last year my sight began to fail.
I'd stop what's called the wild, gay life:
It's wrong, as often has been shown—
And, anyhow, I've got a wife
Who never lets me out alone.

"I'D close the movies, big and small,
Without no wherefores and no whys;
I never go myself at all—
I have such trouble with my eyes.
And if I could stop—this ain't no joke—
I'd stop the smokin' mighty quick;
As for myself, I never smoke,
Because tobacco makes me sick.

"I'D make the kids quit spoonin', too.
If I'd the final no or yes;
It's many years since I got through
Indulgin' in such foolishness.
I haven't told you nearly half
I'd do, if I could have my way;
It maves me mad when others laugh
Or love," said Ebenezer Gray.



ANOTHER JOB FOR HIM

When Mr. Lloyd George gets the reparation of devastated France attended to he might take up the question of reparation for devastated Ireland, but he probably has other plans.

DOESN'T THIS DESERVE CONSIDERATION?

Hog Island should not be left an untenanted waste. It would be a fine site for a set of tablets bearing a record of the Wilson administration.

THIS IS A SERIOUS MATTER

A New Jersey justice refuses to permit girls who giggle and wear rouge to sit as jurors in his court. He must be one of those independent souls who don't care a cuss for the vamp vote.

Letters to the Editor

British Propaganda

Editor Boston American:

In view of the fact that a measure was introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature March 17 to prevent all recognition of our independence of Great Britain, recognition of the American Revolution, which threw off the yoke of tyranny and oppression of England's rule; in view of that fact, would it not be wise to pause and consider the matter in the situation which now confronts us? The situation is now, shall we assert ourselves in favor of democracy, of government of free peoples by free peoples, or shall we bow down to the mandates of a foreign power and repudiate all the principles for which the world war was fought? Shall we, the richest, most powerful power now on earth, not excepting England, be supine and cower and consider policy before justice? Shall we be cowards and submit to foreign dictates and allow propagands of the vilest sort to flourish? Shall we allow our history books to be written to suit the English view of the American Revolution of 1776?

Now is not the time to obey the mandates of a country which is allowing the most brutal outrages to be committed upon a subject nation; a nation which is crying aloud to Heaven, and especially to America, for help. While we are asked to give money and assistance to the suffering people of Ireland, shall we remain silent and ignore the matter from a political standpoint? Shall we be cowardly and refuse to see danger ahead and suffer insults because we are afraid to give affronts to England? There may be war looming large ahead, and pray God it is averted, and it can be averted by wise counsels; but as an American citizen (not of Irish blood) I protest against this measure, lately introduced, that Bunker Hill Day, Patriots' Day, Evacuation Day and Fourth of July should not be celebrated! CARRIE G. BARR.

THE GAY LIFE

To the mat and to dine, and then down the line:
Taxis and girlies—hooray!
His money all spent; doesn't know where it went—
The end of a perfect day.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U.S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

THE OTHER day.
YOU MAY remember.
I HAD something here.
ABOUT A man.
WHO MISSED a show.
AND MISSED a train.
BECAUSE OF a girl.
THAT HE gazed upon.
AND IN the end.
HE MISSED the girl.
AND WE sermonized.
ABOUT THE things.
THAT LEAD us away.
FROM THE definite aims.
WE HAVE in view.
AND NOW there comes.
IN THE daily press.
A THRILLING tale.
OF A three-year-old.
WHO A year before.
IN THE gentle Spring.
HAD BEEN to Aunt Nellie's.
IN THE subway train.
AND THE other day.
WHILE HIS mother shopped.
AND HE stood outside
WITH HIS kiddie car.
HE FELT the call.
OF THE wanderlust.
AND CLOSE at hand.
WAS A subway place.
AND HE parked his car.
AND JOINED a woman.
ON THE subway stairs.
AND FOLLOWED her.
AND STAYED quite close.
AND THROUGH the gates
AND TO the train.
AND HE followed the woman.
WHEN SHE got out.
AT THE Park street station.
AND HE was lost.
AND LATE that night.
A BIG policeman
TOOK HIM home.
AND HE told his mother.
HE HAD started out.
TO AUNT Nellie's place
BUT HAD lost his way.
AND THAT is all.
EXCEPT I'LL bet.
WHEN HE grows up.
AND MAKES up his mind.
HE WANTS Aunt Nellie.
HE'LL GO and get her.
WHEREVER SHE is.
AND KIDDIE kars.
OR SOFT blue eyes.
WON'T HALT his step.

I THANK you.

ACTION OF HEREDITY IN HUMAN FAMILY

By Damon Runyon

Copyright, 1921, by Star Company.

FAST race horses generally beget speed. Mate Man o' War with a cabman's mare and the foal would show some of the sire's running ability.

Mate a pit dog with a yellow cur and the whelps almost invariably have the fighting instinct strongly developed. Cross a fierce timber wolf and a gentle shepherd dog and the wolf strain stands out in the pups in nine cases out of ten.

It is, I take it, because the male is the stronger sex in animals. This being true in animals, one might think it true in humans; but it is not. In human breeding, the female seems to predominate.

In the Prize Ring

The prize ring affords us our best opportunity for study in heredity along the above lines. I have gone to some trouble looking up the sons of fighters, and I find that it is very rarely, indeed, that the fighting instinct and ability is transmitted from one generation to another.

Harry Gilmore, thirty-four years ago a claimant of the feather-weight title, and who fought Jack McAuliffe for the lightweight title, is considered one of the greatest boxing instructors in the world. Today, past sixty, he is still a famous instructor in Chicago.

Gilmore had a son who was the apple of his eye. He taught the youngster boxing, and developed him with great care. Old Harry thought the boy would make a great fighter. He matched him against another of his pupils, Billy Rotchford, in a bout before a Chicago athletic club years ago, and Rotchford closed young Gilmore's professional career with a knock-out.

Fitzsimmons' Son

Bob Fitzsimmons, one of the greatest fighters that ever lived, game, skilful, and powerful, had a boy, Robert, junior, still living, and still a young man. Old Bob thought young Bob would make a good fighter and the lad has had a number of professional bouts. He has never shown anything of his father's marvelous ability, however.

These are exceptional cases. Thousands of boxers have figured in the history of the American ring in the past fifty years, but rarely were their fathers before them fighters, and rarely have their sons become fighters.

Bernie Wefers, wonderful runner, has transmitted some of his speed on to his son, Bernie, junior, now a star of the athletic period. For one Wefers, we have innumerable other cases where great athletes have passed on none of their ability.

Stars and Stripes

Careless youth fills age with cares.

Old age is never respected in debts or promises.

To say "No" at the proper time is better than great eloquence.

Where cunning and compulsion fail to make an entrance, politeness opens the door with ease.

A gossiping bore is like a watch, ticking a monotonous tune, and appreciated only when he goes.

Today is the favorite son of Father Time.

When liars fall out with each other they tell the truth.

The best brands of opportunities are those we make ourselves.

The average man on his feet is worth more than a genius on his back.

It is better to know the worth of a thing in possession than to learn the worth of it through want.

There are no rewards offered for finding fault.

A crime is often the giant growth of a small bad habit.

Sharp blades wound without pain; and keen wit, though scarcely perceptible, cuts deepest.

Sudden success is not so apt to turn a man's head as to turn the hearts of many men against him.

Conscience is never the healthier for taking a vacation.

DOES LOVE SIGNIFY GIVE OR TAKE?

By Beatrice Fairfax

WOULDN'T you much rather be presented with a dandelion you wanted than a bunch of chrysanthemums you hadn't a vase for or a place for? Haven't you seen a boy scowling at an expensive train of toy cars when he wanted a top or a kite?

I've an idea that the percentage of love affairs and marriages that go agley and astray would be materially lessened if only folks were a bit more willing to adjust themselves to the personality and wishes of other folks.

Recently a psychologist delivered an address in which he explained the "only child complex." In the beginning, a baby is its own world. It discovers its hands and plays with its fingers and toes. It loves its little self and satisfactions from the little body in which it finds itself living.

Give and Take

Then baby comes to be a boy of six or seven and adjusts itself to its brothers and sisters and the "give and take" of life. But the only child still finds the universe revolving about it and grows up without proper adjustment to life. Coming out into the world it must suffer—and learn.

So much for the "spoiled only child." But doesn't he—or she—A manifest self again in the love affair which is conducted in terms of "me" and not in terms of "You"?

How often a man says, "I think I can make you happy dear," when he means, "I hope you will make me happy."

After all, we have each of us to dwell inside the body which is our "home" as long as we live out our life here on earth. We give happiness in exact ratio to our power to project our minds and souls outside that house, and feel the common pulse of life which we'd never be able to reach if we stayed too tightly shut up inside our "body" houses.

The sort of love that wants to take—be it kisses, embraces, gifts, sympathy or understanding—is selfish. But so may the love which wishes only to give be selfish.

It requires finesse and savoir faire and complete unconsciousness to take as royally as you give. The feeling of generosity that comes from splendid giving can't help affording a deep satisfaction to the giver. The one who receives must learn to be gracious and sweet—even when receiving the very thing she didn't want.

I'm not contradicting myself. I'm merely turning to the spiritual phase of giving and taking. Let me tell you a little story illustrating it.

Loves Daintiness

Lucie loves pretty handkerchiefs. Dainty, fine ones are her joy in life. Recently Ralph asked her quite frankly what she'd like for her birthday. She told him.

And Ralph, scorning to give his sweetheart a gift he regarded as utilitarian and something she'd buy herself anyway, purchased for Lucie a bottle of French perfume at $18. Lucie didn't like the rich, heavy fragrance. She hadn't any handkerchiefs suitable for use with such luxurious scent. Ralph had failed in giving. Lucie didn't fail in taking. She was gracious and sweet. And she put it this way to me:

"I love Ralph—as he is, not as I might have created him if I'd been writing a story with him for the hero. He's my real hero. And I want him to be happy. Otherwise what does it matter to me? I'm twice as happy when he tells me I'm the one girl in the world as I'd ever be over anything else. I get so much—that I long to give a little, too."

That's the kind of love that won't fail. It has to create happiness.

LOOK OUT FOR SHARKS

If you have a little money in the bank and wish to invest it in something to bring in a greater interest, do not be led into taking stock in some of the thousand-and-one wildcat schemes for getting money out of unsuspecting folk.

Go to your banker and talk to him about how you should invest your money.

His concern earns its income through investments, and it is his business to know what are sound investments and those which are gambles.

The man who gets a little money ahead out of an ordinary salary does so on account of many self-denials on his own part as well as those of his family.

After saving for years it is surprising how gullible a man can be.

Never in history were there as many apparently feasible schemes for getting hold of the nest egg and attracting the savings of the man of small means.

Many kinds of sharks consider the small savings man the best prey.
